Officials Tyrants, Snoopers, Inquisitors

'High Tax Party Rules Too Long, Now Threatens Free Enterprise'

Diefenbaker Speaks Out

MONTREAL (BUP)—Continuation of high federal taxes can bring about an end of this country's free enterprise system and will also weaken provincial rights, Conservative leader John Diefenbaker told a banquet of 1,000 party members honoring him last night.

"The high tax party has been in power too long," Diefenbaker said. "The taxes have become confiscatory and can, if continued, bring about the end of our system of free enterprise."

That was not only his own opinion, he said. The same view was held by former deputy taxation minister V. W. Scully, now in private business.

"No one can justify tax evasion," Diefenbaker said, "but there are far too many income tax officials who are operating tyrannically as snoopers and inquisitors and who by their actions are unjustifiably interfering with the rights of decent Canadians."

Diefenbaker rapped the government's failure to handle inflationary pressures properly or to halt the decline in the dollar's purchasing power. The only action taken had been to restrict credit and raise interest rates, he said.

"Such a policy cannot cure inflation without effective action by the federal government to restrict its spendthrift mentality," he said.

"Major elements increasing inflation are heavy government spending and high taxes, in both of which fields the St. Laurent government seems to pride itself on its record of failing to reduce either or both.

"The inflationary trend . . . will not be met without a change of government, for the St. Laurent government has developed an insatiable disinterest in saving the people's money and restricting the national spending, without which the Canadian dollar will buy less and less and irretrivable damage will be done to the Canadian economy."

The concentration of taxation in the central government, he said, will dilute provincial rights as effectively as would an actual amendement of the constitution.

Diplomatic Storm

Egyptians Hesitant On Gaza

CAIRO (AP)—Egypt withheld orders Tuesday night which would send a civil administration into the Gaza Strip in the midst of widespread concern over its announced intention of governing there.

The announcement Monday that Egypt would take over civil control of the strip immediately stirred a diplomatic storm in the United Nations and in Israel and Washington.

Diplomatic quarters said UN officials believe Egypt's hasty decision violated an understanding between UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold and Foreign Minister Mahmoud Fawzi of Egypt.

An official of Egypt's Palestine department said he did not know when Egyptian administrators will go to Gaza.

ARAB KILLED

UN Undersecretary Ralph Bunche was seeing Egyptian officials and keeping in close telephone contact with UN headquarters in New York.

There were indications a compromise may be worked out under which Egypt would take over civil control of the strip and the UN Emergency Forces would keep peace on the Israeli-Egyptian frontier.

Meanwhile, the UN Emergency Force which moved into the strip behind the withdrawing Israelis Tuesday night confirmed for the first time that an Arab was fatally wounded Sunday by a ricocheting bullet as UN troops fired over the heads of demonstrators.

Prime Minister Harold Macmillan called his cabinet into urgent session today to consider the threat of a new Mid-East outbreak.

Maj.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns of Canada, UNEF commander Tuesday expressed "deep regret" at the death of 20-year-old Mohamed Moshraf.

He died Monday night of the wound and 50,000 persons joined the funeral procession Tuesday.

Meanwhile, fears remained that Israel would react sharply to the new Egyptian plan and create a new crisis. The Israelis withdrew from Gaza on the assumption that Egypt would not be permitted to return. Israel accuses Egypt of using Gaza as a base for raids on Israel.

POOR POSITION

Neutral military observers said the Egyptians would be in a poor position at present in case of a clash with Israeli forces which vacated the strip under UN and United States pressure last week.

In His Charges

Bonner Hints Sommers Had Poetic Licence

Former Lands and Forests Minister Robert E. Sommers may have used "a considerable amount of poetic licence" last session when charging a huge conspiracy existed to wreck the government and its forest management policies, Attorney-General Robert Bonner said yesterday.

He was answering a question by Gordon Dowding (CCF, Burnaby) as to whether the reason the charges had not been investigated was due to the fact that the government considered them "nonsense."

"I think a considerable amount of poetic licence might have gone into the expression of those charges," replied Mr. Bonner.

Tony Gargrave (CCF, Mackenzie) asked if the slander suit launched by Mr. Sommers against Vancouver lawyer David Sturdy prevented Mr. Bonner from instituting criminal proceedings against anyone.

HANDS NOT TIED

"No, a civil suit cannot tie the hands of the chief law officer," Mr. Bonner replied. "A criminal case, if it occurs, takes precedence over a civil suit."

The opposition fired questions at the attorney-general over his refusal to table the report into the case made by Insp. W. J. Butler of the RCMP.

The government is not aware that any forest management licence has been improperly granted, Mr. Bonner said after Mr. Gargrave had questioned whether the Butler report might have disclosed "undue pressure" to secure licences.

The attorney-general said he would have to consider his position "at that time" when asked if he would consider a royal commission into the case when the civil suit ends.

He said he doubted whether he would appoint a commission to probe a similar affair, as the Vancouver police probe had been "flamboyantly inquired into."

This reply came after Mr. Gregory had demanded to know why the attorney-general had chosen the RCMP form of investigation into the Sturdy-Sommers case as against a royal commission.

The Commons will have a full-dress foreign affairs debate on Friday, led by External Affairs Minister Lester B. Pearson reporting on the government's stand on Middle East problems.

Tribe Set To Flee Volcano

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UP)—The native population of bleak Umnak Island in the Aleutians called an emergency village council meeting yesterday afternoon to decide whether to evacuate the island as an 8,000-foot volcano threatened to blow up.

The Coast Guard cutter Bittersweet was standing by should the frightened natives decide to leave the island as the volcano continued to smoke and steam.

About 25 natives fled from the tiny village of Nikoloski on the island Monday when Mount Useivdo, a long-dormant volcano, started pouring out huge clouds of white steam.

They spent the night in a barn on a sheep ranch owned by Art Harris, only white man in the vicinity.

Mount Usevido began acting up during a series of minor earthquakes which began shaking the islands on the western tip of the Aleutian chain Monday morning.

The earthquakes occurred at half-hour intervals during the day but were reported "not too severe."

It was believed the volcano had been inactive for about 200 years.

"The natives are plenty scared," said Walter Freeman, airline agent on Umnak. "They think that volcano is ready to blow its top."

Sharp Quake Hits Ecuador

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador (AP)—A long, sharp earthquake shook this city Tuesday and cracked the walls of several buildings. No casualties were reported immediately.

Survivors Picked Up

BOSTON (UP)—A coast guard cutter rescued nine men, frostbitten and drifting in an open lifeboat 175 miles out to sea last night.

They were survivors of a coastal freighter, the Patricia Sweeney, which sank Sunday when her cargo shifted and capsized the vessel in a howling gale. All hands were saved.

Government Aids Air Monopolists In Squeeze Play

OTTAWA (BUP)—John B. Hamilton (PC, York West) charged in the Commons yesterday that Trans-Canada and Canadian Pacific Airlines have divided Canada's air service between themselves with government approval, to the exclusion of all other competition.

"I think we can look to the Air Transport Board as the determining authority with regard to the type of licence issued for operations," Hamilton said, "but at the present time it would appear that the two major air lines operating in the country in concert with the minister of trade and commerce and with the minister of transport may divide up the spoils of the operation . . . but without creating an opportunity for those main line companies that exist just below their level."

Hamilton also inferred that ministerial control had supplanted the powers of the Air Transport Board and the "monopolistic tendencies" of Canada's two major air lines would impede the development of the jet age.

'Insidious' Vodka Can't Come to B.C.

Don't expect vodka to be sold in B.C. liquor stores in the near future.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner said yesterday that "apart from its delightful qualities, it is rather an insidious drink."

Because of its tasteless, odorless qualities it was considered a big factor in juvenile delinquency, said Mr. Bonner, quoting a vodka distributor.

Teaches PM How to Dance with Duchess

Mrs. Satchmo Saves Day

LONDON (UP)—The wife of hot trumpet man Louis "Satchmo" Armstrong told yesterday how she taught Ghana Prime Minister Kwame Nkrumah how to waltz so he could dance with the Duchess of Kent.

The Duchess was in Accra representing her niece, Queen Elizabeth, at Ghana's independence celebrations. Mrs. Armstrong was there representing her husband, who rocked the country on a recent tour.

"We were in the prime minister's house at lunch before the big ball," Mrs. Armstrong said.

"The PM says 'I've got to dance with the Duchess tonight and I don't know how to dance. What am I going to do?'"

"So I said, 'It's all right, man, I'll teach you to dance.' And I did."

She passed up the hot beat of her husband's jazz for something a bit more sedate.

"I taught him the foxtrot and the waltz because we didn't know which one they would play," Mrs. Armstrong said. "I hear the PM did very well. He caught on to that one-two-three."

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

THE MOST disgusting news story of the week was the first-person narrative of a millionaire Texas "sportsman" who killed two elephants with a bow and arrow in East Africa to win a $10,000 bet.

In primitive times this man would have been the hero of the tribe for slaughtering enough meat to fill every stomach. They used bows and arrows and spears then because they had nothing else.

Now that more merciful weapons exist, the killing of a large inoffensive beast with an antique weapon to satisfy a whim is an act of cruel butchery.

No doubt the hunter was a brave man. He loosed his arrow at the first elephant from a range of 10 yards. But a professional hunter stood by with a rifle in case anything went wrong.

The kill was a feat of strength, too. This bow takes a 102-pound pull. But strength and bravery are more impressive when they are accompanied by a decent respect for the feelings of living creatures.

* * *

In a burbling account of his nasty adventure, this man said: 'It was the most thrilling moment when I pulled the bow and set the arrow going. A swish, then a thud. It hit home deep. I just couldn't miss a vital spot."

"The arrow penetrated the elephant almost completely. Just the feathers were showing. It hit the lungs. The bull took only a few minute to die. But it ploughed on a bit, then fell into a shallow cut . . . It got up heavily . . . I dropped it with a second arrow to the heart."

He is bringing back the tusks to a museum, of which he is director of natural history.

Will Cecile Marry?

Shyly eluding attempts to find out if they plan to become engaged in May are Cecile Dionne, one of the famed Dionne quintuplets, and Philippe Langlois, a 25-year-old radio technician. Quints will be 23 on May 28 and it is rumored the engagement will be announced then.—(CP.)

Crap Game Haul, Accused Explains

Preliminary hearing of Colin W. L. Chalmers, 25, on a charge of armed robbery of the James Bay branch, [illegible] was adjourned to today after all prosecution witnesses had been heard yesterday in city police court.

Adjournment was requested by defence counsel Kenneth Murphy.

Victoria police detective William Andrews was first on the stand yesterday.

He told Magistrate Henry C. Hall he went to Vancouver on Feb. 21 with Det. Norman Bath and Peter Margetts, bank teller. There, he said, Mr. Margetts picked accused from a line-up as the man who had robbed the bank of $3,600.

Detective Andrews told of receiving from Vancouver detective William S. Porteous an envelope containing $620 which accused had placed in a hotel safe.

Included in this sum were nine $2 bills with certain serial numbers which Detective Andrews placed in a separate envelope together with a list of bill numbers from the bank.

The detective said that during a conversation he and Detective Bath had with accused, Chalmers told them [illegible] floating crap game in a Victoria hotel.

At the outset of that same conversation in a Vancouver police interrogation room, Detective Andrews said accused was formally charged with the bank hold-up.

Aid Request Turned Down

A request for financial aid from Esquimalt Community Club was turned down by Esquimalt council Monday night on the grounds that he present Municipal Act did not allow such contributions.

Acting Reeve J. F. Carey said the new Municipal Act may allow such grants.

The club stated in a letter that money was needed to pay a debt contract when its club building was moved.

Parking Space

Hudson's Bay Co. is not considering "at this time" a multi-storey car park structure on land purchased adjacent to the store's main parking lot, Howard McKay, assistant manager said yesterday.

The company announced yesterday that it had completed negotiations for the purchase of building and land of Victoria Quick Freeze Lockers Ltd. on Blanshard Street "to round out the company's property holdings at the rear of the store."

The building will be torn down, Mr. McKay said, to provide parking space for 50 cars.

R. A. Robison, owner of the locked firm, said he would suspend business for probably six months before establishing elsewhere in the district.

Mr. Robison indicated that the firm would be strictly a commercial cold-storage business in the future.

On Highway

Saanich Wedge Now Commercial

A large triangular section adjacent to Saanich municipal yard and bounded by Patricia Bay Highway, Saanich Road and Seymour Road was approved for commercial rezoning last night by Saanich council.

The request was one of five heard at a series of public hearings set last night. Council approved four of them, turned down the fifth.

Rezoning the Patricia Bay property was recommended earlier this year by former councillor J. Ronald Grant as an ideal site for a large shopping centre or simular development.

Council approved the rezoning but stipulated that provisions for off-street parking must be made.

Turned down by council was a bid by McColl-Frontenac Oil Company to rezone the southeast corner of Cordova Bay and Fenn Road for service station use.

Coun. Ainslie Worthington, a member of the Town Planning Commission which recommended against rezoning, nevertheless put the motion that rezoning be granted.

Reeve Arthur Ash relinquished the chair to second the motion, defeated in a split decision.

City alderman Millard Mooney's request to rezone a corner at Tolmie and Oak to establish a dealership for large trucks and farm equipment was approved with the stipulation that "junk" would not be stored on the premises or property.

'Culture' Approved

OTTAWA (CP) — Legislation to set up a Canada Council endowed with $100,000,000 to promote the arts and aid universities got final parliamentary approval Tuesday.

The measure, which already has Commons approval, will become law with royal assent expected before the end of this week. It will set up a 21-man council with $50,000,000 to expend in capital grants to universities over the next 10 years and another $50,000,000 from the treasury to invest with the revenue to be used to promote the arts, humanities and social sciences.

Sidney Village Spreads Out

The provincial cabinet yesterday passed an order-in-council incorporating 142 acres into the Village of Sidney.

A. W. Sharp, village clerk, said the land was composed of 27 acres on the south side of Beacon Avenue west of Memorial Park; a Veterans' Land Act development on 65 acres north of Beacon Avenue and west of Seventh Street. The remainder of the land on the north side of Beacon Avenue to the Pat Bay Highway belonging to the department of transport.

Garden Notes

Water—Lots of It Glads' Prime Need

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

In yesterday's column I suggested that gladiolus were best grown in the vegetable plot, and treated as a source of cut flowers for the house rather than to ornament the flower beds.

This is because while glads are superb as cut flowers, they don't mix very well with other flowers in mixed beds, and they become untidy and bedraggled-looking during the critical period after flowering, when the plant is plumping up the bulb for next year's flowers.

The one dominant need of the gladiolus is water—lots of water—and because water is sometimes a rather scarce and expensive commodity during our summer dry spells, I grow my glads in trenches, so they can be irrigated with the hose without waste.

These trenches serve another purpose, too—around flowering time, when the spikes are tall and top-heavy, the trenches can be filled in giving additional support to the plants against loss from gales. Using this technique, I have never found it necessary to stake my glads.

SPARE WIDTH

I take out a trench across the width of my vegetable patch, making it the width of my spade, around 10 inches, and about eight inches deep. A two-inch layer of damp peat moss is spread over the bottom of the trench, and this is sprinkled with bone meal, just a little less than a cupful per running yard of trench.

The peat moss and bone meal are then mixed thoroughly into the soil in the bottom of the trench. You can chop it in, using your half-moon lawn edger, or you can draw a five-pronged cultivator several times through the mixture.

The trench is now ready for planting. Incidentally, the excavated soil is heaped up on both sides of the trench, to be handy for filling in, and to provide a little protection from the cold winds of spring.

The bulbs are planted in a single row down the middle of the trench, just pressing them into the soft peat-soil mixture, and spacing them five inches apart. Make sure you get them in right side up—the root scar on the bottom of the bulb will keep you right on this point.

CUT IN TWO

Very large, flattish bulbs may be cut in two, as you would a seed potato, making sure there is a shoot emerging from both halves, but if you want to get a really superb spike from such elderly bulbs, a better plan is to disbud them, digging out all the shoots but one, using the point of a sharp knife. This will throw all the strength of the bulb into one single spike of bloom.

Bringing Up Baby

HINTS COLLECTED BY Mrs. Dan Gerber (MOTHER OF 3)

One thing you can count on: when baby gets to the grasping and holding stage almost everything will end up in that sweet rosebud mouth. A few safety measures:

- Toys should be small enough to hold, too large to swallow.
- They should be washable or cheap enough to discard when soiled.
- Hard surfaces should be free of sharp edges. Be sure small parts, like button eyes cannot be detached.

* * *

Bib bobbin. Usable squares of old, colored terry-cloth towels can easily be transformed into gay bibs for baby. Bind with tape or ribbon, attach ties and presto! you've an absorbent droplet catcher.

* * *

Mainstay for baby's diet. Specially prepared baby cereals play an important role in baby's daily diet because they provide many of baby's early nutritional needs. Gerber Baby Cereals are enriched with iron, calcium and B-vitamins . . . and offer an excellent source of energy. Audience Engrossed

'Othello' Cast Never Lets Up

By BRUCE LOWTHER

Canadian Players of Stratford performed with excellence in a most commendable reading of Shakespeare's "Othello" at the Royal Theatre last night.

The actors and actresses, 16 in all, started slowly, but by the difficult second act they had the audience entirely engrossed in the tragic subject and never let up until the end.

The two-day visit ends with Shaw's "Man and Superman" at 8.45 tonight. Last year, when the fully Canadian company surprised all with its high standards, Shakespeare was well done but Shaw was masterfully presented.

As is usual with "Othello," the best performance was that of Iago; as Max Helpmann made evil enchanting and, through sheer force, kept things moving again and again.

In the title role Tony Van Bridge seemed occasionally a little wooden and bombastic. But his slow disintegration and final recovery of humor were so well done as to more than wipe out these minor faults.

Ann Casson, who has a major role tonight, more than once won audible approval from the audience. Other good work was done by Dawn Greenhalgh as Desdemona, John Gardiner as Rodrigo and Ted Follows as Cassio.

"Othello" was done in costumes and good ones, with effectively plain sets. Lighting was adequate.

Narcotic Curbs Approved

OTTAWA (CP) — The Senate gave final approval without debate Tuesday night to government legislation aimed at curbing the underworld drug traffic.

It provides penalties up to life imprisonment for the professional drug trafficker and smuggler.

The new law is based on recommendations of a 1955 special committee headed by Senator Thomas Reid (L—British Columbia).

'Impudent' Youth Canada's Folly

KAMLOOPS, B.C. (CP)—A former sports editor of the Kamloops Sentinel who returned to his native South Africa last year after three years in Canada describes Canadian teenagers as being impudent and deceitful.

Desmond Burridge made his observations in an article in a Capetown newspaper, a copy of which was received here Tuesday.

"What we could never accept, even if we had lived in Canada the rest of our lives, was the indulgence of older people — parents, teachers, and even police magistrates—towards children, and the impudence and conceit of adolescents who knew they held the whip hand."

He said Canada, whether it likes it or not, is saddled with the American way of life.

"But the quickest way to insult a Canadian is to call him an American."

The writer expressed his amazement at the large number of cars available to teenagers. He said Canadian parents are not wealthy.

Some parents have tried to resist domination by their children, he wrote. All they had succeeded in doing was to make unpopular freaks of the children in the eyes of their friends.

Bonner to Probe 'Drunk-Dumping'

A report that an Indian woman froze to death at Williams Lake after being "dumped" on the stampede grounds by the RCMP will be investigated by Attorney-General Robert Bonner.

Mr. Bonner said he had been told that the RCMP at Williams Lake had a practice of taking drunken Indians out to the stampede grounds because there was no room in the jail.

"The jail fills up rather early on a Saturday night and whites who drink too much are taken to a hotel," said Mr. Shelford. "But I have been told that Indians are just taken out and dumped."

He said he had been informed that an Indian man and his wife were taken out to the grounds one Saturday night. The man later woke up and walked back to the beer parlor, but his wife froze to death by the time she was noticed next morning.

Had the RCMP at Williams Lake been disciplined, he asked?

"I don't know if this is true," Mr. Shelford admitted. "I hope it is wrong."

Mr. Bonner said the matter had not been brought to his attention but that he would look into it.

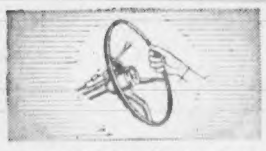
There's even more to Chevrolet than meets the eye!

Look close at the BIG values in trucks today . . . and the scores of more-for-your-dollar features that prove it! Chevrolet Trucks are engineered better, built better—for bigger savings!



POWER STEERING ON ALL MODELS—The boon of power steering, optional across the board! Lessens driver fatigue, brings new ease and precision to control and handling.

HYDRAULIC VALVE LIFTERS – The most trouble-free, most dependable valve lifters featured in the most modern of all truck V8's! Quiet and self-adjusting, they ensure longer valve life.

DOUBLE STEEL WALL CAB CONSTRUCTION—Means longer body life . . . extra safety for driver. Double the security, double the sturdiness . . . in cabs with passenger car driving comfort!

EASY-ADJUST DISTRIBUTOR POINTS – You can now make precise breaker-point adjustment with the engine running! Added insurance against costly down-time. Standard on Chevy's heavy duty V8's.

RECIRCULATING BALL GEAR STEERING – Inside the steering gear scores of polished steel balls virtually eliminate friction . . . you steer with new ease! Less wear—and longer life, too!

CONCEALED SAFETY STEP – Concealed step inside cab stays clear of ice, snow, mud . . . gives firm, safe footing. Another familiar "first" for Chevrolet.

MIGHTY NEW POWER PLANTS—From the 140 h.p. Thriftmaster 6 to the great 210 h.p. Loadmaster V8, Chevrolet engines set an unchallenged pace for maximum "muscle" torque and economy!

ALDIPPED VALVES – Special aluminum treatment on valve surface protects valves against pitting . . . the engine wears less, costs less to run. New durability – from Chevrolet!

CHEVY V8 PISTON – Extra short stroke V8 piston! Travels a shorter distance, wears less. Super-short-stroke efficiency means extra fuel economy, too!

NU-FLEX SEAT—With built-in relief valves! Try out Chevrolet's widely-acclaimed driving comfort for yourself – the deep coil springs, metered-air shock dampening and 3-way adjustment!

TWO FUEL FILTERS IN EVERY V8 TRUCK—Located in fuel tank and carburetor, Chevrolet's special DUAL filters keep dirt AND water from hampering efficient operation, ensure smooth running.

MORAINE "M400" BEARINGS – Toughest, most durable main and connecting rod bearings ever developed for truck use! Add longer life to Chevrolet's Taskmaster and Loadmaster V8's.

POWERMATIC TRANSMISSION—A revolutionary Chevrolet "first"! Easy, efficient automatic shifting with direct-drive cruising economy – a years-ahead heavy-duty option! Hydra-Matic, Powerglide also available.

HI-LEVEL VENTILATION—All-weather ventilation from wide intake at windshield-base, away from road heat and dust. A much-admired Chevrolet "first"!

What Is the Policy?

FOR some time it has been difficult for Canadian business to follow the changing reasoning of the federal government on fiscal affairs or to ascertain with any clarity what will be the national policy with respect to money and credit. In a period of exorbitant taxation and federal outlays of $100,000,000 a week, Mr. Harris warned against inflation and appealed for savings on the part of the public. In the middle of that, when housing money fell short, the administration appealed for more mortgage funds to cover housing contracts; squeezed the chartered banks through realignment of their legal reserves; warned again against inflation, but went right on spending.

Then began the succession of mark-ups in the central bank's discount rate, provoking higher-cost loans through every area of public and private business. These moves, said Mr. Harris, were necessary so that Canada would not overstrain its capacity to produce or exhaust its available manpower. Meanwhile the national debt, which the government had laid firm claims to reducing, began to stand still and recently to go up. Federal maturities in succession were refunded by a series of costly short-term borrowings, savings bonds and other means. In all of this Ottawa has given no indication whatever of curbing its own outlays, in full competition with an expanding industrial program.

This week there has been some more confusion. The central bank is discussing the channelling of private savings deposits in the hands of the banks into needed housing mortgage funds, bonds and other investments, perhaps to the point of withdrawing the cheque privilege on savings accounts. Concurrently Mr. Harris, Mr. Pearson and others in the cabinet warn the public against inflation; and concurrently also it is reported from Ottawa that the government intends to make an across-the-board pay increase for the current civil list in Canada. There is open debate about whether voluntary curbs on consumer credit have succeeded or failed, and once more talk of applied curbs on instalment buying if a formula can be found.

Regarding this spectacle, Canadian business men hardly can know what is coming, or what to expect next from Ottawa. The value of the Canadian dollar—quite apart from its world position—has been, and remains, guesswork here at home. Bond and stock markets go up and go down influenced by the stimulus applied or withheld through successive federal manoeuvres, and the central bank rate. One year ago at the last session the government was asked to curb instalment buying then considered at a dangerously high level. The cabinet declined to do so. This week the issue is revived, and again it is debated. Instalment pressures meanwhile have risen, rather than declined.

Still there is no clear cut federal policy. The administration appears to be trying to ride two horses simultaneously—one with a check-rein and the other with spurs. It can't be done.

In Good Hands

THERE is never any fear that a senior officer of the Royal Canadian Navy will grow rusty in his job. It is part of a wise tradition that they rotate regularly to new posts. In this way commands are refreshed periodically with new personalities and flag officers—and less exalted ranks also for rotation is a basic principle—widen the scope of their experience. The totality is a navy kept from staleness and instead renewed with enthusiasm.

The one drawback is that a community linked so closely to the RCN as Victoria no sooner gets to know its flag officer intimately than he is posted elsewhere. It seems like yesterday when Rear-Admiral Pullen arrived to take over the Esquimalt station, although of course he had previous connections here; now he is due this summer to assume the Atlantic command. This is the top coastal command of the RCN and a progression that is a laudable aim of all devoted naval careerists. His two years here have reflected the qualities that fit him for high naval responsibility.

His successor at the end of July is no stranger to this coast either, for Rear-Admiral Rayner was the commandant at Royal Roads some years ago and he is remembered as the Magnificent's captain when the aircraft carrier paid its only visit to these waters in November, 1954. Like Admiral Pullen he also has a distinguished wartime background and has climbed the ladder of promotion steadily in the postwar years. His appointment as flag officer of the Pacific Command ensures a continuance of efficient administration at Esquimalt.

The other posting of interest among the latest changes concerns Commodore Dyer, who will succeed Rear-Admiral Rayner as chief of naval personnel at Ottawa with the rank of rear-admiral, and who at 41 years of age will be the youngest RCN officer of this high rank. He commanded the Naden barracks two years ago. All of the rear-admirals affected are comparatively young, in fact, in the full flower of many-sided experience and at a peak of active naval role. The chief commands of the RCN seem to be in good hands, and that is something to note with satisfaction.

Better Pound Service

BEFORE the city council tomorrow will be a proposal which should find ready favor. This is the recommendation that operation of the Victoria and Oak Bay dog pound be transferred from city administration to the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals—in line with the practice adopted by many municipalities on the mainland and more recently by Esquimalt and Nanaimo. Such a change-over here would be in the best interests of all concerned and on all counts. It is particularly appropriate in a city of dog-lovers like this, for it assures humane treatment for pets which go astray, as most do at one time or another.

While there has been no complaint about the way the city-operated pound has been managed recently, the service is inadequate and cannot be otherwise when provided by only one man. Experience elsewhere has shown to the satisfaction of councils and public alike that pounds in conjunction with dog licensing can be operated much more efficiently and kindly by the SPCA inspectors.

The proposed agreement also fully takes care of the city's financial interest. There can be no loss of revenue to the city; on the contrary the return is more likely to rise. At the same time, through more comprehensive coverage, returns from dog licences will improve the revenue position of the SPCA and enable it in turn to improve the pound service and minimize the nuisance caused by roving dogs, which at present are more numerous than a single dog-catcher can hope to handle.

Under the present system the annual dog licence is widely regarded by owners as a nuisance tax. Under the new they will have the happy knowledge that through the fees their own dogs will be well cared for if they should happen to stray.

Soviets Probing for Rebels

By LESLIE BALOGH BAIN
North American Newspaper Alliance

VIENNA—Scrawled in chalk on the bullet-pocked walls of Budapest is a three-letter slogan—"Muk"—that has appeared overnight regularly in the past months.

The letters mean "In March we start again," the rallying cry of the heralded second Budapest uprising rumored set for March 15.

Will the Hungarians rise again this month? Rebel sources here admit the possibility, though say it is remote. What worries refugee circles the most is evidence that the Stalinist Kadar regime is not only eager to meet and crush new violence, but also is actively inciting revolt as a means to draw from hiding the last freedom fighters and their arms.

In fact, reports reaching Vienna suggest, the government may have set agents provocateurs to scribbling the "Muk" signs in the streets, spreading rumors and encouraging a final showdown fight on its own terms.

* * *

Intermittent fighting is still going on in Budapest, especially at night after curfew. The city rarely passes a night without gunfire being heard. Hungarian authorities claim that 20 per cent of the arms of the former Hungarian army is still missing and in the hands of the rebels. At a conservative estimate this would mean that 60,000 rifles and 5,000 machine guns are still unaccounted for.

Military and police measures in Hungary are in the hands of special detail of the Soviet NKVD sent from Moscow to restore order. Its Hungarian adviser and special agent is Sandor Dekany, a former AVH (Hungarian political police) general, son-in-law of Matyas Rakosi, the exiled Communist boss of Hungary. He is surrounded by former Stalinists who are out for revenge. The headquarters of the NKVD is at the former military prison where all important political prisoners are kept, including General Kovacs and Maleter, who were the two Hungarian delegates negotiating for Soviet withdrawal at the time of Russia's re-entry in Budapest on Nov. 4.

Budapest itself and most of the larger cities are under the control of Col. Laszlo Matyas of the reconstituted Hungarian political police, which is now a department of the national police. Nominally the AVH was dissolved, but Matyas' department is made up exclusively of former AVH terrorists.

Thinking Aloud

". . . of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

SEVERAL of my colleagues waylaid me in turn last weekend to point with sly innuendo at the cover picture of a certain magazine. Obviously they sought to take a gentle "rise" out of me.

The picture, possibly, you saw. It was the back view of an Algonquin woman of Quebec carrying a papoose, and she was garbed in what seems to be the Royal Stewart tartans, skirt and plaid both.

I says seems because it's hard to tell nowadays if a tartan is the real mackay. Not long ago a Highland chief who has worn a kilt for 40 years said he was bamboozled by the number of so-called tartans. When he was a boy half of them never existed.

There are so many the Lord Lyon King of Arms himself gets lost among the designs.

Anyway I didn't bat an eyelid when confronted with the MacAlgonquin. I chuckled heartily in fact and squelched my facetious friends. I hope by saving I thought I would tear the cover off and send it to some folk in Scotland.

* * *

Mind you, it's enough to break the heart of a real clansman, but if the Scots will export the tartan they can't complain about who wears it.

Of course, they send it out in self-defence — and to get hold of a few dollars, naturally, what do you expect? because all kinds of competitors are horning in on the garb of the Gael.

Why, they tell me that places like Sweden, Pakistan and Italy weave the tartan nowadays. Is not that something, or other? Sacrilege, mayne.

When the kilt was revived after the Jacobite proscription there was a king who went to Edinburgh with Sir Walter Scott and the journals of the day spoke of the "tartan frenzy" that ensued. 'Twas nothing to the frenzy current in Canada and also, I daresay, across the border.

A Canadian touring the Highlands of Scotland dressed as a Red Indian would create a far bigger sensation than an Indian in Canada garbed in Highland costume.

I will admit that to my native soul there's a certain incongruity about the way all and sundry sport the tartan, but I have no itch to reach for a skeandhu. I wouldn't myself ever adopt the white skirt of the Grecian Evzones or the native costume of a Czechoslovakian, for instance, but there's no law to compel propriety. Everyone must obey his or her own instincts—I suppose.

* * *

And the fashions of the day. Since the Scots push the sale of the tartan they must take the blame for the deluge. Although, perhaps we should remember, they need the dollars over there terribly, to a degree that should make us humble. And therefore not too anxious to quarrel with their export business.

If it's the Stuart she's wearing, there's one thing about the MacAlgonquin lady: she aims high but she hasn't overstepped clan bounds. This is the royal tartan, but it's free to those who don't have one of their own. I am inclined to doubt that such royal favor had Indians in mind originally, but no matter.

After all, people know a good thing when they see it . . . and for all we know she may be an Indian princess.

Incidentally, Prince Charles Edward Stuart, whose plaid the little papoose hides in, is shown pictorially in the same colorful tartan kilt and all, in ads which bespeak his special whisky. And I was reading the other day that the contemporary evidence of his dress while he was in Scotland shows him to have worn trews, not the kilt.

So much for that, but let's keep off the subject of kilts. For I've had a dreadful thought. Supposing Mrs. MacAlgonquin's husband steps out some day in a Royal Stewart kilt!

Snobbery Afflicts the Middle East

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

TEHERAN—One matter that has concerned me in countries visited on this trip through the Middle East is the condition of education—not only that there is not enough of it on the primary and secondary levels, but that on the secondary and higher levels it is the wrong kind of education. It is not creating people with either the skills or the outlook that Iran (to mention a particular case) needs.

A nation becomes strong, self-respecting, and prosperous to the extent that it is able to release and integrate human energy. The leadership of every nation must come from the educated. But what this country along with many other Middle East states is producing is a university youth who, with a great deal of theoretical knowledge, is unable to put it to constructive use for himself or society.

Higher education has little to do with practical life or social necessity. It creates an under-employed, underpaid class whose only hope, ambition, or opportunity is to drift into bureaucratic ministerial jobs and engage in paper work. These educated civil servants are so under-paid that corruption can be justified by sheer necessity.

* * *

In the West, and especially in the northern countries, education does not set its recipient apart from the rest of mankind, as an "elite" which must never engage in manual or applied activities. But in these countries theory and application are divorced by an all but impassable gulf. A graduate engineer, unable to find a high managerial position, would not dream of starting as, say, a foreman in an industry, even if it would pay him much better than some petty office position. An agricultural graduate hopes for a planning job but rarely dreams of acquiring a piece of land and making it pay by the sweat of his own back and the application of his superior knowledge, for to labor, even on one's own land would reduce his social status.

The idea of working one's way through college is a highly revolutionary Americanism. Many Iranian students in the United States probably a majority of the 1,900 who are there do help work their way; first, because they have to, and second, because they have made the amazing discovery that no social stigma attaches to it, but rather social approval. But most of them are urged by their families to suppress this part of their American experience when they return.

* * *

Not all parents are so shocked. Some want their sons to study in America rather than in Europe because they may win experience of working life. But they cannot duplicate this approach at home. And all too many students from this and other Middle East countries do not return at all, or, if they return, cannot find satisfactory occupations.

Iran needs doctors, teachers, engineers, nurses, social workers. But even such as there are tend to congregate in the capital and avoid the provinces, where they are much more seriously needed. Iran, a country of over 20,000,000, has 3,000 doctors—and needs at least 20,000.

But the emoluments from studies of long duration are still fearfully low.

Even more serious is the almost total gap between the educated and the lowest manual workers. The country needs mechanics, plumbers, practical nurses, and skilled workers in every branch of industry. Apart from the ancient and still beautiful crafts—silversmiths, tile-makers, hand-weavers—learned by apprenticeship and usually passed from father to son, these middle workers, out of whose ranks in our own country many great industrial managers have come, are practically non-existent.

It would be highly desirable—and welcomed by this government and by the shah—if America would start a medical college and vocational technical schools in the main provinces and run them for at least 10 years. In the case of the latter, American prestige and American teachers working with the students instead of merely "instructing" them could, I am sure, add the necessary prestige to the idea that a mechanic is a highly respectable member of society.

It occurs to me that this form of "foreign aid" might well be undertaken by the automobile companies and workers of America.

Incredible Taxation

(From The Montreal Gazette)

IT WOULD seem quite astounding—almost past belief—to hear that in any country a commodity is taxed 34 per cent on the ordinary retail price, 117 per cent of the retail price less taxes, and 192 per cent of the manufacturers' selling price.

Yet these are the actual rates of federal taxes upon a commodity sold in Canada—cigarets.

Most people are not aware how great a proportion of the price they pay for a package of cigarets is made up of taxation. Yet it is true that average families in Canada are paying a great deal heavier tax burden than they realize.

An average family of four, on a $4,000 income, pays $250 a year in income taxes. If both adults are average smokers (using five packs per week each) they pay an additional penalty of $92 per year in tobacco taxation.

An average family of four on an income of $3,000 a year pays $112 a year in income taxes. If both adults are below average smokers (using four packs per week) their additional penalty is $74 a year in tobacco taxation.

All these facts are brought out in a report prepared by Prof. D. W. Slater of the department of political and economical science of Queen's University, Kingston. This report has been presented to the federal government by the Flue-Cured Tobacco Marketing Association of Ontario, representing 93 per cent of the growers of all tobacco used in Canada.

The association believes that taxes on this scale are "a relic of days long past when tobacco was an imported luxury." Today Canadian cigarets are 99 per cent Canadian tobacco in content.

If the tobacco tax were reduced—and the government's surplus allows for such reduction—the revenue would undoubtedly be recovered in larger sales, and in the higher tax yield from the tobacco industry, and allied businesses.

Such an adjustment at this time would seem as reasonable as the staggering tobacco taxes seem unreasonable.

The Packsack

Of GREGORY CLARK

SEVERAL of my friends are temperamental.

In some of them, it is temper. In others, it is mental.

Fifty years ago not a darn one of them would have dared to be temperamental. That was a condition reserved for actresses, opera singers, artists and the daughters of wealthy families.

If they had a bad temper, they just took the consequences. They lost their jobs, their friends gave them up, their families made life tough for them and, in certain levels of society, they got beat up at proper intervals. As for claiming that there were deep abysses in your personality, that you were confused, frustrated, that forces outside and beyond your control were at work within you, it wouldn't have got you anywhere fifty years ago.

And if you protested you were mental, there were no psychologists, or psychiatrists to back you up. It was quite a job to get into a lunatic asylum fifty years ago. A lot of red tape. Three doctors, family doctors. If you had to be put in a straight-jacket you might, with political pull, get into the already crowded institutions. But if you were just a little crazy, that was all right. Every family had one or two in the family connection. There was no harm in them. We all just muddled along somehow. They weren't considered mental. Just odd. Being mental was not deemed to be something you had. It was something you didn't have—the wits to get along in society.

To tell the truth, life before the advent of the psychologists was a pretty straightforward business. Fifty years ago you were born, you lived, you worked to the best of your ability, you died, and went either to heaven or hell. Though there were the good and the bad, the mean and the noble, the stinkers and the good guys, the mass of mankind appeared to be pretty sturdy good folk headed for a heaven filled with music, harps and hallelujahs. That there were abysses within the human personality was undreamed of, even by poets. There was only the one abyss.

There is a curious paradox that with the increase of human understanding of the world around us, there appears to be a steady decline in human understanding. We are no longer puzzled by our neighbors. We are puzzled by ourselves.

Fun, Fact and Fiction

A Canadian reader of a United States business magazine was startled by the heading of a recent advertisement. It read: "Look to Ottawa for more work per man-hour!" Further reading reassured him. The advertisement was for a line of contruction equipment manufactured under the trade name "Ottawa."

Letters to the Editor

Petty Officialdom

The motor vehicles department appears to have a new scheme for milking the public.

During the past week or so a team has been testing drivers on Salt Spring Island. The normal fee for the examination is $1. However, for some reason this team has required several persons to take part of the test one day and the remainder of the test on another, charging $1 on each occasion.

If the examiner can do the job properly in one day for the examination at one time for which we fail to see any valid reason, surely the public should not be fined an extra dollar.

Furthermore since the majority of the examinees have to travel several miles to take the tests, this new arrangement breaks into two days instead of one.

This appears to be another example of "to Hades with the public" on the part of petty officialdom. My own test was not involved.

From All—To Some

I have not heard or seen much criticism of the government proposal to pay $28 of the municipal taxes of every homeowner. I suppose the homeowners are waiting willing to accept any benefit that may come to them whether they are entitled to it or not. I am a home-owning householder and I suppose will benefit, but if I had a vote on it I would vote against it.

When the government has this money to dispose of it must have come from the people by way of general taxes. Should money collected from all the people be distributed to a selected class? And is it reasonable to make the home owners the objects of special treatment?

If the government is getting in too much money with the present tax structure then some of the taxes should be remitted. It costs money to collect taxes and it costs money to distribute it again even to a select group. By repealing some taxes money would be saved both ways.

At the present time food, fuel and fuel oil are free of the sales tax, but fuel oil is liable to a half-cent a gallon tax. This might be taken off to place it on a par with wood and coal.

Then we have electric current. It is as necessary just now as any of the above and it is in universal use. It is now liable for the sales tax, and that is another one that might be taken off and everybody would benefit. But perhaps this government is not particular about benefitting all the people.

Non-Teaching Teachers

Congratulations to Mr. Stoddert, the first man in Greater Victoria to stand up in one of our so-called educational forums and name of the junior high school for what it is, a hybrid.

The main purpose of the junior high school in our education system is to provide non-teaching jobs for teachers. Think of it, a whole new set of administration officers in an already top-heavy education set-up.

It would be interesting to find out just how many taxpayers' dollars are spent in B.C. every year to provide teacher training to prepare teachers for non-teaching jobs in an institution that has as much practical value as the second tail on a cat, the junior high school.

National Flags

Recently reported was the newest addition to the British Commonwealth of Nations, namely, the African country now called Ghana. At a ceremony celebrating their country's new status as a sovereign nation a distinctive new flag was unfurled, one of green and gold field with a black star thereon.

How do Canadians represent their nation's sovereignty? They display a colonial flag, the Red Ensign. As a result of ignorance and apathy many Canadians think the Red Ensign entirely suitable.

How much longer will Canadians deny themselves the emotional joy attached to public demonstrations of national pride embodied in a flag symbolic of that pride? The Red Ensign can never be that symbol.

Baby Born In Wreck

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP)—A baby was born in a bus wreck which killed the mother and five other persons in South Puerto Rico. The bus went over a cliff when the driver swerved to avoid hitting an oncoming station wagon. Police said a pregnant woman on her way for a medical checkup died in the smashup and rescuers found the newborn baby by her side.

Shipyard Workers . . . . . . Want 10 Per Cent

2,750,000 Britons to Strike

LONDON (Reuters) — Nearly 2,750,000 industrial workers, the muscle behind Britain's export drive for dollars, will strike for a 10-per-cent pay increase calculated to add £100,000,000 ($280,000,000) to the country's wage bill.

Union leaders rejected government proposals to settle a strike by 200,000 shipyard workers, scheduled to start Saturday.

Instead, they said the shipyard strike will go on and that it should be extended to 2,500,000 other members of the Confederation of Shipbuilding and Engineering Unions.

The union action follows rejection of wage demands by the Engineering and Allied Employers National Federation, representing 4,500 British manufacturing concerns.

The CSEU membership embraces skilled and unskilled workers throughout Britain's manufacturing industry. Known loosely as "engineers," they include machinists, mechanics, lathe operators, fitters, blacksmiths, mechanics and maintenance men.

A meeting of union chiefs has been called for Friday to plan co-ordination of the mass strike.

F. C. Brady, president of the employers' federation, told union chiefs Tuesday: "Wages must not be allowed to outrun productivity.

"The country must improve its export position and this means that our export prices must be reduced and not increased."

Bernard Macarty, director of the employers federation, said the affected industries provide more than 40 per cent of Britain's total exports and the national economy is dependent on them.

The government Tuesday appointed an arbitrator to solve the shipyard dispute in an effort to head off industrial chaos.

With Harry Young

In winning both Victoria district winter medals Bill McColl of Colwood gave evidence that he is once again a strong contender for this season's B.C. golf honors, and perhaps a place on the Willingdon Cup team.

Bill, in winning the second winter medal at Uplands Sunday, came from behind in his best scrapping style. He [illegible] his clubmate Jimmy Robertson at the start of the round, but the turning point of the struggle was the seventh—extra long against the strong wind—which McColl holed in a birdie four while Robertson took eight.

Still, Robertson had a chance to tie right to the end. At the last hole he failed to get down in two from the edge of the green.

Bob Morrison would have been closer if his putting had been more consistent. He four-putted one green and three-putted five more.

The city buttons match on Sunday at Colwood brings past holders Bill McColl and Vic Painter of the host club back into the challenging spot against Doug Munro and Einar Brynjolfson.

This will be a second defence for the Victoria club youngsters. Play begins at 1 p.m.

The junior buttons will follow at 1.15 with holders Dale Dalziell and Bill Wakeham of Uplands meeting left-hander Cliff Horwood and Jim Watson of the Victoria club.

GREENSOME AT GORGE

The mixed handicap tournament at Gorge Vale on Sunday will be a greensome with each partner driving and choosing which ball to play. Leo Derman is in charge of making the draw. The Carlow trophy is at stake.

BOB FLEMING SAD LOSS

Golfers and all local sportsmen will join with me I am sure in offering sincere sympathy to Bob Fleming in the loss of his father this week after a long and trying illness. Always one of his son's closest followers in his golfing career, Mr. Fleming was well-known to the golfing community, and was just as popular as his distinguished son.

* * *

PARENTS CAN HELP

One of the things most disturbing to those who are working on junior development in golf is the apathy shown locally for the game by girls.

Only a handful of girls are members of the local clubs, and that's a pity for golf is one of the few major appeal games in which women are at no special disadvantage.

Maybe some of the golfing mothers and fathers of the district could do a little homework spreading the gospel of golf among their daughters. It is something neither they nor their children are ever likely to regret.

* * *

UNIFORMITY WOULD HELP

In Victoria open events the handicap limit for men is 36, and this limit is also in effect at all the local clubs except Victoria where for some time the men's handicap limit has been 24.

It has been suggested that longer handicap players of the Victoria club who are unable to play to the maximum handicap of 24 are at a distinct disadvantage if they play in open events or inter-club matches.

Meantime, the Victoria club has raised the handicap limit for the Challoner-Mitchell foursome competition this year to 36, and the policy may be extended to other events.

There's seems little reason why one club should be out of line now that handicaps are all more or less computed on the same system.

TEAM MATCHES FEATURED

Team matches with out-of-town clubs are a feature of this season's program of the Royal Colwood club. Home and away games will be played against Rainier (Seattle), Nanaimo and Port Angeles.

The Port Angeles match is a newcomer on the list. It will be the 12-side match played at Colwood July 14 and Port Angeles July 28. The Washington club has a sporting nine-hole layout, and in the past it has played matches with the Uplands and Gorge Vale clubs.

McLeod, Maloney Break Loose As Cougars Blow Big Chance

VANCOUVER—Vancouver Canucks moved back into the playoff picture in the western division of the Western Hockey League here last night, blasting Victoria Cougars, 7-5, on the combined efforts of a pair of Cougar nemeses—Phil Maloney and Jackie McLeod.

McLeod and Maloney each picked up hat tricks for the night; Maloney drew assists on all three of McLeod's goals, and McLeod set up Maloney twice.

Last night's scores: VICTORIA 5 at Vancouver 7; Brandon 3 at Edmonton 2.
Next games tonight: Winnipeg at Seattle; Brandon at Calgary.

McLeod's last goal tied the score at 5-5 after the Cougars had fought back to overcome a 2-0 first period deficit. Maloney's final pair came in a space of 28 seconds with two minutes remaining in the game to give Canucks their win.

As matters now stand, Vancouver is back in third place, a single point of the Cougars for the third playoff berth. Both teams have five games left to play and meet once more this season, in Victoria.

Penalties hurt the Cougar cause considerably. McLeod scored early in the first period while Lionel Heinrich was off for cross-checking, and both Bill Davidson and Gordie Haworth were serving penalties when Maloney made it 2-0.

Bill Dobbyn put the Cougars on the scoresheet at 7.23 of the second period on a long shot. McLeod matched that one 10 minutes later, but coach Colin Kilburn came back to score on a breakaway at 18.43.

Cougars, fighting for the five-point cushion that would have gone a long way towards assuring them of a playoff berth, fought back grimly in the third period. Doug Macaulay tied the score at 3-3 after three minutes, only to have rookie Don Appleton beat Marcel Pelletier on a breakaway.

Victoria took the lead for the first time in the game as both Wayne Brown and Ray Powell scored on long shots from the left side into the far corner of the net.

McLeod's final effort tied it up again, and Maloney wrapped it up by scoring at 15.10 and 18.38.

Pelletier was at his best in the action-filled game, blocking 34 shots as compared to 17 for Ray Mikulan.

Tiremen at Kelowna In B.C. Hoop Final

Dickinson & Dunn, B.C. coast senior "B" men's basketball champions, leave for Kelowna Thursday afternoon, where they will play Kelowna Oilers in a two-game, total-point series for the provincial title.

First game of the series will be played Friday night and the second Saturday night. Winner will advance to the western Canada finals in Alberta April 8-10. There will be no Canadian senior "B" final this season.

The Oilers won the right to meet the Tiremen by downing Prince George Meteors, 65-55 Sunday, giving them a four-point victory in the two-game, total-point Interior series, 115-111.

Gonzales Again Blows Top; Canuck Gives Champ Battle

Professional tennis king Pancho Gonzales, who has been in trouble with net fans more than once this year, calmed down after a temperamental outburst and outlasted little Ken Rosewall of Australia for a 6-2, 5-7, 24-22 marthon victory before 4,885 Boston fans Tuesday night.

Annoyed by a heckler, Gonzales blew his top after losing his service while leading 13-12 in the deciding set. He blasted the ball in the direction of the spectator but the ball was deflected by a press box occupant and grazed off a reporter's head.

Gonzales then stomped off the court and started through the centre aisle exit. Stopping suddenly, he grabbed Dr. Edward R. Brown, Boston Garden physician, by the lapels. Ushers restrained Gonzales while other Garden personnel prevented Dick Hemric, forward for Boston Celtics of the National Basketball Association, from going to Dr. Brown's aid.

Gonzales finally cooled off and returned to the court to resume the match. His heckler left shortly afterward.

World lightweight champion Joe Brown of New Orleans earned a split decision over Canadian Armand Savoie in a lively overweight 10-rounder before a crowd of about 3,000 at Houston Tuesday night.

Brown, making his first showing since defending his title against Wallace (Bud) Smith last month, jarred the Montreal belter several times in the in-fighting, but there were no knockdowns. The superbly-conditioned Savoie, an unranked former Canadian lightweight champion, scored well from long range.

Wings Show Top Form In Boosting NHL Lead

Detroit Red Wings boosted their National Hockey League lead to five points over the idle Montreal Canadiens last night by edging Chicago Black Hawks, 4-3, before 6,238 fans in the final home game of the season for the Hawks.

Alex Delvecchio scored twice and assisted on a third goal in continuing his great late-season scoring splurge. The speedy centre, who missed the first 22 games of the season, chalked up his 14th and 15th goals of the campaign and has now scored 13 times since January 1.

Wings displayed some of their sharpest hockey of the season last night, although they had to put down a late rally by the Hawks in the third period. Trailing 4-0, the last-place Hawks rattled three goals past Glenn Hall in 11 minutes.

STARTS COMEBACK

Forbes Kennedy started the rally at 9.04. Nine minutes later, Nick Mickoski beat Hall while Detroit's Warren Godfrey was in the penalty box and Hec Lalande scored Chicago's third goal, 39 seconds later, deflecting a shot by Kennedy into the corner of the net.

Delvecchio scored the first of his two goals in the first period with Mickoski serving a tripping penalty. Norm Ullman and Delvecchio made it 3-0 in the second period, and Lorne Ferguson scored what proved to be the winner midway in the third.

Capitals Lead Hockey Series

Capitals edged Senators, 3-2, at Memorial Arena yesterday to take a one-game lead in the best-of-three Greater Victoria Minor Hockey Association final for the city bantam championship.

Mike Woodley scored twice and Jack Canton once for Capitals, while Dan Buie and John Paul tallied for the Senators.

Earlier in the day, Senators had beaten Maroons, 3-2, to win the two-game, total-point semi-final, 10-6. John Paul picked up two goals for the Senators and Jerry Melnyk opened scoring for Maroons.

Red Sox Break Drought In 1-0 Win Over Yanks

Bobby Bragan's Pittsburgh Pirates won their fourth straight game and Philadelphia Phillies and Boston Red Sox found the victory column for the first time Tuesday as the major league baseball clubs continued their spring warmups in Florida and Arizona.

Pirates, still unbeaten, used an 11-hit attack including a homer by rookie Dick Stewart to defeat Cincinnati Redlegs 6-1 at Tampa, Fla.

FLUKE RUN

Veteran Jim Hearn and rookies Dick Bunker and Dick Farrell fashioned a six-hitter as Phils defeated Washington 4-2 at Clearwater. At St. Petersburg, the so-far punchless Red Sox scored a fluke run in the 13th inning to nip New York Yankees 1-0.

In other games, Cleveland scored seven runs in the first inning and went on to whip Chicago Cubs 8-1 at Tucson, Ariz.; Wally Moon and Del Ennis cracked home runs for St. Louis Cardinals in their 12-4 romp over Kansas City at West Palm Beach, Fla.; Frank Torre drove in the run that gave Milwaukee a 1-0 decision over Detroit at Bradenton, Fla., and at Phoenix, Ariz., Gail Harris' three-run homer in the last of the ninth enabled New York Giants to edge Baltimore 9-8.

With two out in the 13th and the bases loaded, Bill Skowron being tried at third base by Casey Stengel stumbled after fielding an easy grounder. By the time he recovered, all runners were safe and Jim Piersall had raced home from third with the game's only run.

Volunteer Clowns Needed for Fete

A call for volunteer clowns has gone out from the Greater Victoria Celebrations Committee.

People who will volunteer to have their faces painted beyond recognition, dress in outlandish clothing and clown their way through the Victoria Day parade are asked to phone 2-3912 and give their names to the committee.

Nanaimo Quartet Undefeated In Western Canada Playoffs

SASKATOON—Mrs. Marg Fuller of Nanaimo, representing British Columbia in the western Canada women's curling playdowns, and the Alberta entry skipped by Mrs. L. McCloy of Edmonton, were both undefeated yesterday after the first day of the four-day competition at Saskatoon.

Mrs. Fuller, turning in a fine exhibition of shotmaking, defeated Quebec, 15-11, in the opening round of the five-rink, double round-robin championship. The Nanaimo rink followed up with a 9-7 triumph over Manitoba, then edged Saskatchewan, 9-8, in the third round.

The Alberta quartet nipped Manitoba, 9-8, in the opening round and downed Quebec, 15-9 in the third round after drawing an afternoon bye. In other games, Saskatchewan came up with four in the 12th and final end to defeat Quebec, which is playing by invitation, 12-10.

DEFEND FOR B.C.

Mrs. Fuller's fine curling featured the Nanaimo rink's success. The B.C. entry defending the title won last year by Mrs. M. McAllister of Vancouver scored four in the eighth end against Quebec to break a 7-7 deadlock.

Against Manitoba, the Nanaimo quartet scored twice in the last end for the victory, Mrs. Fuller making a fine takeout on last rock. Mrs. Fuller again came through with a brilliant takeout to count one in the final end against Saskatchewan.

BRENTFORD WINS

LONDON (Reuters) — Brentford beat Southend 3-2 Tuesday in their third division south soccer match.

Manitoba scored on five successive ends against Alberta to tie the count 8-8 coming home. With Manitoba counting two, Mrs. McCloy drew in to the eight-foot circle to pull out the win.

Dockers Get Favored Club In Opening of B.C. Meet

Sixteen of the best high school basketball teams in the province, including two from Greater Victoria, begin play today in the 12th annual B.C. High School basketball tournament at the University of British Columbia gym in Vancouver.

Opening-day draw of the four-day event, has Cumberland Toppers, winners of the Vancouver Island title and the Colonist Cup, meeting Prince George in the first game at 11 a.m.

Oak Bay High sees its first action this afternoon when it meets John Oliver of Vancouver, which finished eighth last year. Esquimalt Dockers, the second Greater Victoria entry, have drawn the toughest match of the first round, meeting powerful Vancouver College.

College is rated a heavy favorite to win its third provincial championship with Lester Pearson, the defending champion, given a good chance of reaching the final.

In other first-round action, West Vancouver plays Kamloops; Kelowna meets North Surrey; Castlegar takes on Port Moody; Lester Pearson clashes with Chilliwack, and Magee goes against Abbotsford.

Play continues Thursday, with semi-finals set for Friday and the final scheduled Saturday night.

Canadian Shuttle Meet in '58?

Victoria May Host Second Big Event

Another major attraction has been added to the impressive list of big sports events to be held in British Columbia in connection with the 1958 centennial celebrations.

The Canadian Badminton Association has sanctioned B.C. for the 1958 Dominion badminton championships.

Phil Salmon, president of the B.C. Badminton Association, made the announcement last night, saying that the only detail to be decided is in what city the tournament will be held.

As matters now stand, the site is a toss-up between Vancouver and Victoria, with the Island city rated as having a slight edge.

Word that B.C. would be chosen to hold the championships was received last week, and officials of the Victoria Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club put in the first bid to host the tournament.

"We'll make the final decision next Monday night at our association meeting in Vancouver," Salmon stated last night.

"Nothing definite can be said until then, but it has to be either Vancouver or Victoria, and Victoria had its bid in first."

Dave Laing, publicity director of the Victoria Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club, said yesterday that the club would be "in top shape" to hold the tournament by 1958.

"We have a slight locker accommodation problem," he said, "but that will be taken care of soon."

No matter which city gets it, the tournament makes a great addition to the centennial sports program. So far the list of events includes a $25,000 golf tournament, the Grey Cup final, also in Vancouver, and the Macdonald's Brier at the Victoria Curling Club.

Surging Rangers 'Dead' If Worsley Isn't Hot

Coach Phil Watson Tuesday pinned the Stanley Cup hopes of New York Rangers on oLrne (Gump) Worsley, the stubby goaltender he has publicly ridiculed several times this season and blasted only two weeks ago as a "fat boy."

The volatile Watson predicted the Rangers will win the cup if Worsley plays like he has been should.

"The way we're going now we can win the cup. But Gump's is our key man. If he isn't hot, we're dead."

Rangers, currently the hottest team in the league, worked out at Madison Square Garden Tuesday in preparation for tonight's game with the third-place Boston Bruins. Unbeaten in their last seven games, the Rangers can clinch the final playoff position with a victory over Boston.

PSYCHOLOGY

Although the Ranger roster is clear of injuries, Watson appears to have prescribed some psychological needling to keep his players on their toes.

Two weeks ago he roasted Worsley when the last-place Chicago Black Hawks tied the Rangers, 6-6, and claimed his goalie was five pounds over his playing weight. Since that time, Worsley has allowed only seven goals in three in the last four games.

Another key player is Andy Bathgate, highest point-getter in the club's history who is in fourth place in the individual scoring race with 70 points. Bathgate picked up three points and four assists in three games last week to move within six points of Montreal's Jean Beliveau.

However, Bathgate is out of the running for the scoring crown. Gordie Howe, seeking an unprecedented fifth title, picked up one assist at Chicago last night to boost his season's total to 83 points, including the Rangers' Andy Bathgate.

Ted Lindsay kept pace behind his Detroit teammate, collecting his 52nd assist and 80th point last night.

The leaders:

	G	A	Pts.	Pen.
Howe, Detroit	41	42	83	68
Lindsay, Detroit	28	52	80	101
Beliveau, Montreal	32	44	76	101
Bathgate, N.Y.	26	44	70	42
Litzenberger, Chicago	30	31	61	44
M. Richard, Montreal	31	27	58	72
Moore, Montreal	28	26	55	51
McKenzie, Boston	20	33	53	28
Ullman, Detroit	19	35	50	45
H. Richard, Montreal	18	33	49	71

Penalties in minutes by clubs: Detroit 612, Chicago 749, Toronto 758, New York 801, Montreal 817, Boston 927.

Saddler Ignores Threat of Blindness; Confident of Regaining Boxing Crown

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (UPI) — Sandy Saddler ignored the sightless spectre of Sam Langford Tuesday and declared firmly from a hospital bed that "one of these days I'll regain the featherweight championship of the world."

One year ago, the 30-year-old Saddler was the unquestioned ruler of the featherweight division. Then, on his way to the gym, he was involved in a taxicab accident. He claims injuries he suffered were the cause of double vision and doctors told him that he would go blind if he fought any more.

But now, after an operation, Saddler ignores the dark glasses which hide his eyes and enthuses, "they tell me I've got a helluva chance to fight again."

"Sure, I know all about the guys who went blind from taking too much of a beating around the eyes," he says as he frets through his recuperative period. "But this is different. This was from a blow on the side of the head, not from beatings around the eyes."

He does, apparently, have that much on his side. Because in a career of 160 bouts—of which he won 142 against 16 losses and two draws while knocking out 103 rivals — it usually was Sandy who handed out the beatings.

"Look," he explains, "it's like 1957.

SANDY SADDLER
. . . 'I'll be back'

this. If I had lost my timing or my reflexes, or if my legs were gone, then it would be different. But it's none of those things."

"I thought my head had been busted wide open," he recalls of the accident. "But I wasn't even cut. Then I had terrific headaches and I told the doctor that I was seeing double. He said that the eyes would clear up when the headaches did. But the headaches went away and the bad vision stayed with me."

Future in Doubt

Sarnia Quits; ORFU Crippled

SARNIA, Ont. (CP)—Officials from two of three remaining teams in the senior Ontario Rugby Football Union expressed "shock" and deep regret at the Sarnia Football Club's announcement Tuesday to withdraw Sarnia Golden Bears from the ORFU.

The announcement came after a special meeting Monday night of Sarnia Football Club directors and the Sarnia Quarterback Club. Lack of fan support was the main reason given for the withdrawal.

M. J. Chilton of Sarnia, first vice-president and acting president of the ORFU, said a meeting of ORFU teams scheduled here Saturday will take place, even though the Bears have dropped out.

MAY DISBAND?

Chilton said the main topic for discussion at the meeting will be the future of the circuit.

George Schmidt, ORFU secretary, said in Kitchener he "couldn't hardly believe" that Sarnia had withdrawn from the league.

Kitchener officials said the Sarnia move came at a bad time. A meeting of more than 60 canvassers Monday night began a campaign to sell 5,000 season tickets to a new stadium expected to open in Waterloo in August.

Sarnia's withdrawal came just 10 days after a Canadian Rugby Union decision that the ORFU's entrance into Grey Cup competition will be subject to annual decision by the CRU executive.

Al Abernethy, Balmy Beach vice-president, said Tuesday: "It's pretty hard for a team to go against the ruling the ORFU got at the recent Canadian Rugby Union meeting. How can we expect fan support if we simply play out our schedule with nothing else to shoot for?"

WE STARTED TO LIVE BETTER

THE NIGHT WE SMELLED SMOKE—

"The smell of smoke is a frightening thing. Thank Heaven, we caught it in time—the Fire Chief told us hundreds of Canadian families every year aren't so lucky.

"The electrical contractor told us a previous owner had wired the outlet that was smoking with a piece of extension cord.

"He also told us: Three out of five homes in Canada are inadequately wired or have faulty wiring such as he found in ours.

" 'No wonder they have trouble,' he said. 'Folks pile today's heavy appliance load on wiring ten to forty years old . . . never give it a thought. Their cars depreciate more in one year than a good, once-in-a-lifetime rewiring job would cost. They want all the wonderful new electric appliances . . . want to be modern without modernizing. When 15 amp fuses start to blow they replace them with 20 then 30 amp. Soon circuits get over loaded, wires get hot, insulation falls off between the walls . . . then s-w-o-o-s-h . . . it would have cost less to have called an electrical contractor!"

"He was right. Rewiring didn't cost much. And we financed it on a Home Improvement Loan. Our new wiring and lighting is the talk of the neighborhood. Our toast is ready faster, the kettle boils quicker—all our appliances operate better—and our light bills are lower. With full HOUSEPOWER we're not only safe . . . we LIVE BETTER—ELECTRICALLY!"

HERE'S WHAT TO DO!

- Call an electrical contractor at once. Have him do an ELECTRICAL SURVEY on your home, building or plant wiring for safety, efficiency and HOUSEPOWER rating. Most contractors do this work at no obligation to you.
- Ask your contractor about Home Improvement Loans . . . how they finance wiring improvements at low interest.
- Contact your Electric Utility for advice.
- Contact your Nearest Electric-Service League for free literature or advice) or write to the Institute of Electrical Living, 126 Davenport Road, Toronto, Ontario, for informative literature on full HOUSEPOWER for old or new homes.

Treasure Seekers Wrecked

'We Ate Sea Snails'

DARWIN, Australia (Reuters) — Six tattered survivors of an ill-fated search for sunken treasure reached here yesterday with an account of shipwreck and a struggle for survival on a tropical island.

The six, including James Burke, 32, of Vancouver, B.C., were part of the crew of the vessel Goldseeker, which sailed from Scotland last year bent on winning a fortune in gold said to be lying in the wreck of a Boston Clipper which went down in New Zealand waters in 1886.

The Goldseeker foundered on Portuguese Timor a month ago after her engines broke down. The Australian skipper, W. J. Evans, set out on foot with native guides to bring help.

The crew members who remained with the hulk grew anxious and eventually set out across the Timor Sea in a 16-foot sail-rigged lifeboat.

* * *

Hurled ashore on lonely Bathurst Island, the party struggled for existence without food before they were found and brought here by the Australian naval survey ship Emu.

Burke and two others, suffering from severe exposure, malnutrition and suspected internal injuries, were taken ashore on stretchers. The other three also were "in bad shape." All were bearded, thin and badly sunburned.

Besides Burke they are: Verity Gill, 23, of Singapore; Allan Addison, 24, of New Zealand, and his brother Robin, Chong San Yapp, 31, seaman from Malaya, and Arthur Danaher, 32, of Ireland.

"We became destitute soon after the skipper left and decided to make a run for it in a dinghy," Gill said. "The only food we had was a pig, 30 coconuts and bunches of bananas."

Burke was the only seaman aboard. He took a bearing from a plane, which passed overhead, on a pocket compass and they steered southwest. Eventually they saw a light.

* * *

"We thought that if it was a lighthouse, there must be a keeper, so we cheered up and ate more than we should of our remaining food," Burke said. "We were not to know it was an unmanned beacon on Bathurst Island.

"We heard surf roaring and thought we had a sandy bottom. It wasn't. We hit rocks heavily and were all thrown out and had to swim for it. Fortunately all got ashore in spite of injuries."

Gill said after three days on the island most of them were sick from hunger.

"We got a few sea snails and I began to boil some shrimps but they were horrible. We were on our way to get some sea snails Monday when we heard a human shout. It was Jack Jensen a local miner and another man. They had found our tracks and followed them."

So-Ed Series Of Lectures Start Soon

Several topics of current interest will be discussed during the eight-week So-Ed class series at the YMCA starting March 19. The Thursday sessions will start at 7:45 p.m.

Lectures and speakers in the current events section will be "The United Nations," Brian Tobin; "Political Thought in India Since 1947," Swami Agahananda; "Life of the Controversial Pelican," Dr. Clifford Carl; "Senior Citizens" Glen Hamilton; "Alcoholism," member of Alcoholics Anonymous; "Atomic Warfare and Civil Defence," Barry Goult; "Thoughts for Today," Rev. J. Rogers.

Music appreciation will be directed by Frank Godley, ceramics by Lloyd Sinclair, and Latin-American dancing by Lynne Ferris.

Donations Needed By Food Stall

All possible donations are needed by the surplus food stall committee for the stall day to be held Saturday.

Mrs. Alice Harper, co-ordinator of the stall, said the calls for assistance have been unusually heavy because of increased unemployment.

Anyone wishing to make a cash donation or have food picked up should call Mrs. Harper, 410 Vincent, at 3-9874.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	1 N.T.	Pass
3 N.T.	All Pass

Opening lead: ♠ 5

Point-count should make it easy for North-South to arrive at three no-trump — but that doesn't mean they have to make it.

Whether he elects to establish clubs or diamonds, declarer will win only eight tricks unless he can bring home a trick in hearts. So he should try to steal a ninth trick before attempting to establish his seventh and eighth.

The most deceptive play—and one which North can afford—is to win the first spade in dummy and immediately lead the jack of hearts. If West ducks, declarer has his ninth trick home and can go about the business of setting up diamonds.

West must be alert to grab his ace of hearts and clear the spades. There's still a hurdle for the defence, but a comparatively simple one. When West returns a spade, East must duck the trick. If East takes his ace and clears the suit, declarer will be able to make the game by passing a diamond lead into West's hand. But with the heart ace spent in a hurry, and the spade ace carefully preserved, East-West will stop game and make their par.

Incidentally, if South is declarer and West leads a heart, the same testing play comes off. This time, East must grab the ace of spades without delay, and West must hold off on the second lead of hearts.

Winning Points: If you need to "steal" a trick, don't wait until you have served notice on the opponents that one more trick is all you need.

Gould to Play for Centenary

Glenn Gould will give three concerts at the Vancouver centenial music festival to be held by the newly-formed Vancouver Festival Society during the summer of 1958.

The much-discussed 24-year-old Toronto pianist made the announcement here yesterday as he rushed about the province on a grind" after his arrival for a trio of concerts this weekend.

With Hans Gruber and the Victoria Symphony Orchestra, Mr. Gould will play Beethoven's fourth concerto in Cowichan High School at Duncan Friday and the Royal Theatre here Sunday and Monday.

The "grind" this season is a total of some 50 concerts, and an idea of its scope is given by a partial list of accompanying orchestras—New York Philharmonic, St. Louis, Pittsburgh, Dallas last week, San Francisco next week, Cleveland and "practically all of the Canadian orchestras."

The friendly young pianist, who is known to take great care of his health, said: "A year ago, I couldn't have imagined doing it—but it hasn't been nearly as bad as I thought it would be."

However, despite his great success as an instrumentalist, Mr. Gould has stuck to his desire to compose music and "next year is limited to 25 concerts, with a lot more time to compose."

Unfortunately for Victoria, next season is booked up and he could only say that "I would love to come back later."

Canadian televiewers got their first look [illegible] Festival show.

"I was blasted in all the papers for my mannerisms, as I always am," he said. "One of the theatre columns in a scandal magazine said that for their money, I was just a ham."

The pianist indicated he doesn't mind, but he wanted it known that when he was conducting orchestral accompaniment to a singer, "she was 60 feet away, I had my back to her, I couldn't hear her and I had to lip-read from a monitor."

In May, he goes to Moscow and Leningrad for six concerts, a visit suggested by the Canadian government two years ago when Canada and Russia discussed a cultural exchange.

Said Mr. Gould: "That was long before the Goldberg Variations and medicine kits."

He was referring to the recording that made him famous and the health habit that increased that fame to the point where he is the best-known musician in the nation.

Liquor for Minors Mostly Minors' Fault

Prosecution in cases where beer parlor operators are tried for serving liquor to a minor should lean just as heavily on those responsible for getting the operators in trouble, the legislature was told Tuesday.

Randolph Harding (CCF, [illegible]) said the "[illegible] should be on those people who get the operator into trouble."

He said it was very "difficult to guard against all the young people who try to get into beer parlors" and that the fine and padlocking of doors was "too harsh" in some cases.

"Many beer parlors have been closed and the operators fined in cases the Liquor Control Board should have overlooked," he said.

Mr. Harding said the practice often used when one person in a group was under age was for that person to "go straight to the lavoratory until a round of beer has been ordered and then return to the table."

When the police come in, he said, the owner is in trouble for serving beer to a minor he didn't even know was in the beer parlor.

He suggested the pubs be equipped with forms to be signed by those persons who say they are over 21 but of whom the management is doubtful.

Immigrants Due

VANCOUVER (CP)—First 70 of an estimated 7,000 British, French and Hungarian immigrants will arrive at Vancouver's international airport Saturday.

The plane will be the first of 50 charter flights to bring British and French immigrants to Canada. A total of 72 flights will come to Vancouver, as well as another 29 flights of Hungarians.

TV Quiz Ups Ante $192,000

NEW YORK (AP)—Television's first big money quiz show, The $64,000 Question, Tuesday posted a new grand prize of $256,000 "to keep up with the trend of the times." A spokesman for the cosmetics firm which sponsors the program over the CBS-TV network said:

"The reason for the change is that we are no longer the highest money quiz show on the air."

The first contestant who will have a chance under the new format is Robert Strom, 40, of the Bronx, who has already won $32,000 answering science questions and decides tonight whether to go for $64,000.

This is how the new setup will function. After a contestant wins $64,000, he will be given a cheque for that amount and invited to return the next week to answer questions worth $16,000 and $32,000. Then comes another $64,000 question and another three-question cycle.

Youths Alarm Cedar

NANAIMO — An electric fence, adequate floodlighting, and permanent patrols are three proposals by North Cedar ratepayers for Brannan Lake School.

Ratepayers said Monday that in view of two cars being stolen recently by fugitives in that area, and the savage assault on a staff member of the school, steps should be taken to prevent the escapes.

They felt that residents would likely get the same treatment as the elderly watchman should they attempt to foil an escape.

Recommendations will be presented to the Vancouver Island Ratepayers' Association in Nanaimo March 30. It will be requested that they be forwarded to the attorney-general.

Bellingham Honors Nanaimo

NANAIMO—Bellingham's offer to entertain Nanaimo as "Honor City" at the Blossom Festival May 11 caught on in city council Monday when Ald. Phil J. Piper enthusiastically proposed that the CPR's Princess of Nanaimo be engaged for a special trip from the Hub City.

City council accepted Bellingham's invitation to attend the festival and arrangements will now be made through the Empire Day Celebration Committee here. Ald. Haig Burns commented that this was the first time any Canadian city had been selected to play the offered role. He called on all Nanaimo groups to play their parts.

Nanaimo Schools' Band and the new civic float will have the places of honor in the parade.

IWA Election Tactics Hit

VANCOUVER (CP)—Elections in the 35,000-member International Woodworkers of America erupted Tuesday into a full-fledged political campaign.

Supporters of Lloyd Whalen, who is challenging district president Joe Morris, were accused of "adopting" two unopposed candidates against their wishes in a bid to strengthen their slate.

George Mitchell, district secretary, and international executive member Walter Allen said their names had been listed as Whalen state candidates, "without even consulting us."

Mitchell also questioned campaign tactics which he said employed a tape record, "in an effort to discredit the present IWA officers."

Allen, who is president of the Port Alberni local, said: "Nobody asked my permission to use my name and photograph on the Whalen propaganda. I'm definitely for Joe Morris.'

Mitchell said: "Win, lose or draw, I'm with Joe Morris."

Ballots in the IWA election are now going out to members and will be counted within 60 days.

Duncan to Bowl on Sunday

DUNCAN — The bowling alley in Duncan will be permitted to open on Sunday from 1 to 6 p.m.

Council was equally divided on the issue, and when it came to a vote Mayor J. T. Dobson cast the deciding ballot in favor of the proposal, strictly on a trial basis.

Ald. James LeQuesne was flatly opposed to any form of organized sport on Sunday, and replying to a question from Mayor Dobson, said this included curling.

Ald. Steve Saunders remarked, "Let them go to church."

Mayor Dobson preferred to allow bowling, he said, than to see the young fellows in hot rods, and this view was shared by Ald. J. J. Kerrone.

Ald. James Saunders considered bowling "a lot better than hanging around getting into more trouble than they could by engaging in a good clean sport like bowling.

NANAIMO—The parks board here passed a budget of $47,691 to city council Monday night before the finance committee draws up its annual budget for 1957.

Last year a $49,000 budget submitted by parks commissioners was pruned to $24,500. About $14,000 of the proposed budget is divided between Robins and Mansfield parks. The remaining $33,691 is the estimated normal expenditure on maintenance work on city parks and playgrounds.

DUNCAN — Building permits for February in the city of Duncan totalled $70,400.

Two new residences and a $15,000 apartment dwelling will cost $31,500. Additions to residences total a cost of $4,400, and commercial alterations will cost $34,500.

Included in the commercial alterations are the Tzouhalem Hotel and the Greenhaven Confectionery.

NANAIMO — Farmers' Co-operative paid a record 10 per cent patronage dividend to members in 1956, president Nat Eccleston told the annual meeting.

He said that $43,200 was returned to members bringing the total since 1938 to $373,000.

Tonnage in 1956 was 5,646 worth $438,000 against 5,848 tons worth $460,000 in 1955. The drop was due "to a reduction in the dairy herd population and a drop in last year's turkey crop."

Mr. Eccleston said $30,000 worth of additions and improvements were expected to be made to the plant.

PORT ALBERNI—A nominating convention has been called by the Progressive Conservative organization for the Comox-Alberni federal riding. The meeting will be held in Qualicum on Tuesday evening, March 26.

It has been announced that Harry McQuillan, president of the B.C. Truck Loggers' Association, has consented to allow his name to stand, if it is decided to run a candidate in the riding.

DUNCAN—The Duncan Kiwanis Ambulance Society put a new $10,000 ambulance unit into operation Monday, within hours after it had completed a 3,385-mile road trip from Kosciusko, Mississippi, where it was built.

Veteran Logger

Charles McGarrigle Dies in Nanaimo

NANAIMO—Charles McGarrigle, 77, a pioneer resident and native son of Nanaimo and one of the six founders of the B.C. Truck Loggers' Association, died in Nanaimo yesterday.

He was first employed at the old Kirkpatrick stables at Old South Wellington and for the past 49 years had lived on the McGarrigle farm at Northfield.

Mr. McGarrigle was a logging foreman for over 50 years at Camp 5 of the original Chemainus sawmill, was a government roads foreman for a number of years, ran his own logging outfit for several years and later opened a cement block plant and gravel business at Quarterway.

He was a past exalted ruler of the Nanaimo Elks' Lodge and took a keen interest in sports and hunting and fishing.

He leaves his widow, Sarah, four daughters, one son and eight grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements are pending.

Coombs Re-elects John Musselwhite

COOMBS—John Musselwhite was re-elected president of the Coombs District Farmers' Institute at the annual meeting. Others taking office are: vice-president, Christopher Horsfield; secretary-treasurer, E. W. Smith; powder secretary, E. A. Strome; directors, C. D. Smithers, D. A. Beaton, Gilbert Mant, Ernest Turner, J. W. Mycock.

Civic Solutions

Nanaimo Students Know What to Do

NANAIMO—Senior High School students, who were given three problems to study at the last city council meeting, returned Monday and turned up almost exactly the same solutions as city aldermen.

Six Grade 12 students, selected to play the part of mayor and aldermen during the recent Education Week, were given the same facilities to work with as city aldermen. They made their own decisions at their own meeting "in committee" and attended the meeting of city council Monday to report.

Included in the group were Anne Louise Thompson, Tom Derbyshire, Don Clarke, Barry McLean and Bob Malpass. Jim Bateman was absent owing to illness. In dealing with access road problem, the students advised the person involved to negotiate with owners of neighboring properties; to a bus loading zone application for Terminal Avenue they advised a temporary zone while the company looked for an alternative site; and they advised council to agree to a Departure Bay PTA request to pay for a lifeguard service at Departure Bay.

St. Patrick's Dinner Gets Irish Turkey

PARKSVILLE—Turkey will be served instead of Irish stew, but all the rest of the program will have the atmosphere of the Emerald Isle at the annual St. Patrick's Day dinner to be held at Knox United Church hall on Saturday from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m.

Regret, Discouragement Follow Death of Talks

Bridge Aid

Mayor Calls Chant

Mayor Percy Scurrah went to see Public Works Minister W. N. Chant yesterday to discuss Mr. Chant's election - campaign pledge that the provincial government would match any federal government grant toward the cost of the new Point Ellice Bridge.

The federal government recently ordered a grant of $108,000.

Mr. Chant reiterated that a provincial grant was under consideration, Mayor Scurrah said.

Doukhobors

Success Years Away

Attorney-General Robert Bonner said yesterday he didn't expect there would be a solution to the Doukhobor problem in his and the next generation at least.

He was replying to a question from Randolph Harding (L-C), Kaslo-Slocan, that he was not too happy with the government's Doukhobor program or the progress being made with it.

"We look for at least a decade within which to see success or partial success of the scheme," said Mr. Bonner.

He added it would take a great amount of patience and perseverence for a generation "before we know whether we are moving in the right direction."

Safe Drivers

Presented with safe-driving awards last night for eight years of navigating their Weston Bakeries Ltd. trucks without accident were from top: Norman E. Sergeant, Amos Vowles and Robert A. Gretton. Awards were made at the annual banquet at the Strathcona Hotel by RCMP and municipal police representatives. Other safe-driving awards went to C. H. Cliff for six years accident-free driving to F. A. Weeks, S. C. Barber and A. E. Gaston five years, Joseph Burns and A. J. Osborne four years, R. N. Meyers two years and W. E. Osselton and A. J. Park one year. (Staff photo by Jim Ryan).

Saanich Decision Blasts Joint Hall

By R. O. MARRION

City officials expressed regret and discouragement yesterday that Saanich council had decided to call off further study of the possibility of building a joint Victoria-Saanich municipal hall.

So did Reeve Arthur Ash of Saanich. And so did about half of the Saanich residents questioned in a random poll, who had any opinion at all on the subject.

Saanich council Monday night voted down continuation of the study of a joint municipal hall and unification of some services. It also turned down renewal of the study undertaken by Greater Victoria municipal representatives a year ago of the effects that amalgamation would have.

Mayor Percy Scurrah said he was not surprised at the action taken by Saanich council (with Reeve Ash dissenting), but "I think it is a mistake to drop as important a matter as this. I think every avenue should be explored before a decision is reached. We don't know until we explore it whether it would be to our advantage or to Saanich's advantage."

Victoria Doing Nicely

Victoria, he said, "is in the fortunate position where it has its finances in shape, is meeting its payments on capital accounts and has its services all in and a long-term program of maintenance and rehabilitation in effect. We don't need to worry."

Ald. Hugh Ramsay, a city member of the Joint-hall committee, called the Saanich attitude "very disappointing."

"We were just looking into the possibilities of a joint hall and amalgamation of services," he said. "It wasn't costing anything. How else could we get the facts? It is very discouraging when they close their minds to it."

Reeve Ash said he keenly regretted the action of Saanich council "in thrusting aside a question that to my mind is important to all the people of Greater Victoria."

As elected representatives, he said, members of Saanich council should regard it as their duty to study the whole question and report to the ratepayers.

"How can an elected body make a proper decision without studying and investigating the matter?" he asked.

Residents Comment

A majority of Saanich residents questioned professed to have no opinions on a joint hall or union with Victoria but those who did had comments received.

Rowland Fawcett, 1441 Cedar Hill Cross Road: "Well, I think it was a mistake to drop the discussions. I think the whole area should be amalgamated police fire and the whole works."

Mrs. R. W. Ball, 3809 Hobbs: "I don't think I want to say anything about that. I feel a little inclined toward Cadboro Bay joining Oak Bay. This is an area in itself."

Donald Seymour, 1140 Tattersall: "I'm all for amalgamation. That's the obvious solution. We'll come to it sometime."

William Shepherd, 201 Cadillac: "We should have amalgamation there's no doubt about that in my mind. From everything I read a business man's point of view . . . yes."

'We Could Wait'

John Adams, 340 Gorge Road West: "I wouldn't go along with that" (the joint-hall study). "We could wait long enough for amalgamation, and then see what we should do. I look toward amalgamation eventually."

Mrs. H. M. Cook, 1098 Iris Avenue: "I wouldn't want to study a joint hall any further. I don't think amalgamation would be good."

Mrs. J. C. J. Morris, 750 Inverness: "We were just discussing that very question right now. I think Saanich should stand by itself and leave amalgamation alone—that's my opinion."

Actually, no Greater Victoria committee to study amalgamation has been formally established this year, so that Saanich could not be said to have "withdrawn" by deciding not to appoint delegates.

"I thought if discussion were resumed it would be a special committee," Mayor Scurrah said in explaining why he had not appointed Victoria representatives this year. "But what's the use of pursuing it?"

Price $15,000 For Park Lot

Saanich council has set a price of $15,000 on a small portion of a memorial park at the corner of Shelbourne and Cedar Hill Crossroad wanted for establishment of a service station at the corner.

Imperial Oil Ltd. made application to rezone part of the land, which is apparently undedicated, to add to adjoining property for a proposed service station.

Council Monday night [illegible] to dedicate the remaining portion of the park property.

Talking Politics

Bonner-Gregory Feud 'Private, Keep Out'

By PETER BRUTON

THE THIRD MAN: Burnaby CCF'er Gordon Dowding was not thanked for his efforts yesterday to try to mediate in the "private vendetta" between Attorney-General Robert Bonner and George Gregory (Liberal, Victoria).

The feud between the two lawyers has been going on a long time.

Premier Bennett put in his two bits worth recently by saying Mr. Gregory was "not fit" to tie the shoelaces of Mr. Bonner. The latter differed with this opinion, saying that after observing Mr. Gregory in action "I am convinced he is" fit to tie shoelaces.

This upset Mr. Dowding, who is also a lawyer.

It was a most improper way for Mr. Bonner to allege incompetence of his brother lawyer, he chided.

"I happen to know from my own experience at the Bar that the Third Member (Mr. Gregory) is a very competent lawyer and the question of tying anyone else's shoelaces is a disparagement of a man I admire greatly as a lawyer," he told Mr. Bonner.

Answered the attorney-general: "The Third Member and myself have a private vendetta of our own and I think he and I would prefer that no other member got in the middle of it."

Mr. Gregory just grinned.

* * *

TOUCHE: Omineca's Cyril Shelford, a Social Crediter who has frequently rocked the legislature with his tales of freezing liquor, yesterday came out with another strong plea for the government to increase the strength of bottled refreshments.

He then went on to say how the jail at Williams Lake was always filled to capacity at an early hour on Saturday evening.

"What is the chief reason?" asked Premier Bennett.

"Mainly through drinking too much under-strength liquor," Mr. Shelford was forced to admit.

* * *

NO BACK-ROOM BOYS: The subject of liquor occupied a great deal of yesterday's sitting.

There was a considerable misconception abroad that the water in liquor sold in the province was put in by the government Liquor Control Board, said Mr. Bonner.

Actually the strength at which liquor was sold in B.C. was the same strength as it was bottled for Canadian consumption.

"Though a person might object to the price he must pay, there is no reason he should suspect there are men in a small dark room surreptitiously uncorking bottles and slipping water in," he said.

* * *

REVERSE FORM: Detecting whether a juvenile is indeed a juvenile is none too easy these days according to the candidate Mr. Dowding of Burnaby.

"Girls in this era all wear silk stockings and lipstick and look as if they are 10 years older than they are . . . and

"Until they reach 40—then they try to do the opposite," interjected George Gregory.

* * *

SPECIAL GUEST: A visitor to the public galleries yesterday was Mr. Justice H. Alan Maclean, former deputy attorney-general before his new appointment earlier this year.

Premier Bennett looked up and saw Mr. Justice Maclean and motioned him to come down and sit in a place of honor on the floor of the legislature.

Flies Today

Financier Ending City Visit

Dr. Axel Wenner-Gren is scheduled to fly to Vancouver at 11 a.m. today after ending a twenty-day social visit to Victoria with a dinner with the B.C. club last night.

A luncheon will be given in his honor today by UBC president Dr. N. A. M. McKenzie and a reception similar to one held here Monday night has been set in the evening at the Hotel Vancouver.

On Thursday Dr. Wenner-Gren will address a Vancouver Kiwanis Club luncheon and then will visit the B.C. Building at the Pacific National Exhibition where he will see a giant relief map of the province.

Final dinner in his whirlwind tour will be with 50 leading Vancouver business men at the Vancouver Club Thursday night.

Due to other commitments he was unable to accept a proposed flight to Prince George and is now scheduled to fly to New York Friday.

What's Cooking!

By Frances Thompson

Give Cabbage Proper Treatment

The other night while preparing a simple meal a neighbor dropped in to say hello. George I was in the midst of cooking, she followed me into the kitchen, parked herself on a stool and as I went to work she started talking. My set up never was and never will be "somewhat" Bohemian, they tell me. Could decidedly over the years my kitchens have ranged from extra modern to plain old fashioned but no matter. I'm rather a nut present set. Wide or large or small, this all important room is often a rendezvous for friends and neighbors. It doesn't bother me to have people watch me cook, does it you?

But to get to the point, have you ever tried certain cooking methods which you take for granted and have used for years are completely new to other people? For instance this Mrs. X who hadn't long travelled to a most informal dinner was amazed at my method of cooking cabbage. Seeing a lovely green head of it sitting along side the sink she asked if I'd forgotten it. When we're just about ready to eat," said I, "that cabbage will be prepared and cooked." Here's how . . .

THREE-MINUTE CABBAGE

Cut the cabbage in quarters, removing if necessary one or two soiled outer leaves. Cut out the thick hard stalk from each quarter.

Grate as much as is required on a course grater, wrapping the remainder tightly in foil for future use. (Don't forget it shrinks considerably in cooking so a medium sized cabbage only yields from 3 to 4 good servings). Put quarter inch into saucepan and bring to a rapid boil, salting only slightly. Meanwhile, put the grated cabbage into colander and give it a quick rinse under the hot tap. Slip it into the rapidly boiling water, cover with a tight fitting lid and let it "gallop" for two to three minutes. Naturally, you will not leave it alone but rather stand right over it. Incidentally, a fair sized shallow saucepan is obviously preferable to a smaller, deep one. There'll be scarcely any water to drain off but what little there is should be kept for soup or gravy.

[illegible] given so much space to the ordinary cabbage. Because, my dears IF PROPERLY COOKED, it is a valuable and inexpensive source of vitamins. Yet, perhaps just because it is such an ordinary vegetable, the lowly cabbage is [illegible]

[illegible] Why wasn't I [illegible] the mashed potatoes [illegible] slightly [illegible] offer seconds? You can have it I don't want it.

[illegible] hard boiled eggs and [illegible] easy budget-wise main course. For variety, devil the eggs. Cut eggs in half, remove yolks and mash with salad dressing or chili sauce, chopped onion or any desired seasoning. Restuff whites with yolk mixture, place on [illegible] top with [illegible] paprika [illegible] well buttered [illegible] 350 degrees F. for 20 to [illegible]

While we're on this important subject of vegetable cookery here's a novel idea.

TURNIP CUPS WITH PEAS

Peel a sufficient quantity of turnips and cut into slices two inches [illegible] Scrape out a little of the centres to form cups. (The trimmings and scrapings can be used in soup.) Cook these turnip cups briskly in boiling, slightly salted water for about 10 minutes or until tender, reducing heat if they show signs of breaking. Drain thoroughly and fill with hot peas, frozen or canned, but better still freshly cooked ones when in season. Sprinkle with salt and pepper, dot with butter and arrange around the roast. Tasty and colorful.

When serving any kind of stew the addition of dumplings is often a help.

Instead of the ordinary variety would you like sometime to try the following.

POTATO DUMPLINGS

One cup sifted flour, 1 cup left [illegible] potatoes, [illegible] salt, [illegible] pepper, 1 egg. Mix flour, potatoes with the seasonings of your choice. Add egg, the well beaten egg. Knead slightly and form into rolls 1½ inches in diameter. Roll. Cut off a slice and [illegible] Cook in gently boiling water for 10 minutes. Drain well. Serve with butter. Sprinkle with chopped parsley. Serve piping hot. You may well ask why I have [illegible] mashed potatoes.

Vogue for Polka Dots Spotted Everywhere

British United Press

Dots and dashes to spring and summer fashions this season.

Polka dots are featured in every fabric from synthetic to silk. They are natural for the [illegible] trademark for the [illegible] fashion industry. But the [illegible] appeal of Capri length slacks with waists wrapped in cummerbunds and to maxi and midi separates.

[illegible] in nubby and textured fabrics, have open jackets revealing sheer dotted blouses with soft bow draped necklines.

The vogue for dots, small medium and large, also is spotted in cape linings and in soft empire tops worn under classic or Eaton boxy jackets of costumes.

Polka dot shoes or collars perk up dark dresses for dawdler's wear in town.

Dots are not confined to prints and contrasting colors. White on white shirtings have woven dot stripes and give an elegant look to a casual dress. When an occasion calls for a garden party look there are pretty dotted Swisses . . . even lace embroidered cottons trimmed with velvet belts or cummerbunds . . . or velvet trims on solid and print voiles.

In children's clothes too dots delineate. Some typical costumes are for play a polka dot pretty topping a pair of white Arnel shorts . . . for the Easter Parade a dotted Swiss pinafore dressed up with satin bows.

TV TALK

By Bruce Lowther

TV game shows are big business.

The firm of Jack Barry, the jewly emcee of 21, and Dan Enright will gross about $5,000,000 this year with 21, You're On Your Own, Tic Tac Dough and other game shows. Things are so good that the company is going into other fields starting with an undersea film called "The Gill Man."

Barry Enright started a decade ago with two radio shows, Juvenile Jury and Life Begins At 80.

★ ★ ★

CHEK-TV has run into distribution problems and won't be able to show the package of 20th Century Fox movies which was to begin April 1. The package includes "Laura" and "A Bell for Adano" and has already started on channel 11. Channel 6 will use some Warner Brothers movies instead.

★ ★ ★

Frank Capra's second science in cartoons feature "Homo The Magnificent" about evolution of the blood premieres on channels 2 and 6 tonight. It is being shown in Canada in advance of U.S. release as a test of interest.

Other good shows are U.S. Steel Hour's "The Bottle Imp," Kraft Theatre's "Collision" and the appearance of CKDA's Norm Pringle on Cross Canada Hit Parade.

★ ★ ★

TV BITS: MGM announced that the most popular movie of all time, "Gone With the Wind," will never be sold to TV . . . Lawrence Welk and his sponsors have decided not to switch from Abc to NBC . . . NBC will telecast the Broadway musical "Wonderful Town" next fall and the lead will go to Rosalind Russell, Nanette Fabray or Gisele Mckenzie.

Latest ratings show that Steve Allen has jumped to fifth on the popularity list. With Perry Como third and Dragnet eighth NBC has more shows in the top 10 than at any time in two years. Sullivan and Lucy still lead the pack.

At last report CBS Wed. and Allen tie only 27.2 to 26.9. A week ago Lucy outrated Romeo and Juliet 49 to 14 and Jackie Gleason went ahead 28 to 22, because Como took a week off.

One week after it was cancelled, Giant Step was resurrected by the sponsor. It returns to CBS tonight and stays at least until the summer . . . CBS has sold the Phil Silvers show to England's commercial network.

Today's Best

7.00—Farley Granger stars in Robert Louis Stevenson's "The Bottle Imp" on U.S. Steel Hour (channels 11 and 12).

7.30—Disneyland's "Man in Flight" (channels 2 and 6).

Rita Del Mar's Daily Astrology

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 13

Today's quotation: "Temperament is temper that is too old to spank." — Charlotte Greenwood.

Wednesday for everyone: Apply yourself diligently to the task at hand, avoiding interruptions or upsets. Continue with what is under way rather than make a fresh start. Use extra care en route and with finances, friends.

Look for Your Birthdate and Birthsign—Below

March 21 to April 19 (Aries)—You'll want a freer rein today. Guard your bankroll; watch danger signals.

April 20 to May 20 (Taurus)—Be careful to get a correct perspective. Don't press for decisions or make changes.

May 21 to June 20 (Gemini) — Be quick to note changes in outlook and opinions of your locale. Shun idle chatter, carelessness.

June 21 to July 22 (Cancer)—Direct your energies toward remedying restrictive monetary circumstances. Don't chafe over shortages.

July 23 to Aug. 22 (Leo)—Be considerate, avoid upsets. Steer clear of becoming deadlocked by friction or tense feelings.

Aug. 23 to Sept. 22 (Virgo) — Look into things; gather facts and information. Make good on previous mistakes; complete tasks at hand.

Sept. 23 to Oct. 22 (Libra)—Reach an understanding on contemplated costs. Take nothing on faith; protect your assets, friendships.

Oct. 23 to Nov. 21 (Scorpio)—Hew to the straight and narrow path today; apply yourself to work and duty. Shun haste.

Nov. 22 to Dec. 21 (Sagittarius)—Put a brake on the urge to be short-tempered or footloose today. Allow for revisions on program.

Dec. 22 to Jan. 19 (Capricorn)—Refrain from looking to others for monetary backing or repayment, nor take on the responsibilities of others.

Jan. 20 to Feb. 18 (Aquarius)—Display a tolerant attitude toward the ups and downs of others. Maintain the respect of higher-ups.

Feb. 19 to March 20 (Pisces)—Follow routine; don't let another's troubles divert you from your own duties. Use care en route.

Planning ahead—Good for entertaining, sociability, etc.—Morning of March 13; 14, 15, 16, 19, daytime of 20; 21, 23, 24, afternoon and evening of 25, 26, evening of 27.

Canadian-Owned Mine Burrows Into Irish Hill

AVOCA, Ireland (CP) — The most talked-of highway in Ireland is a 4,000-foot stretch of Canadian-owned blacktop that burrows into a hillside near this Wicklow County hamlet 40 miles south of Dublin.

The highway is, in fact, the main shaft of St. Patrick's Copper Mines Ltd., a wholly-owned subsidiary of Mogul Mining Corporation of Toronto.

The £2,500,000 development is a choice topic of conversation for it incorporates the latest Canadian mining techniques, many a radical departure from conventional European methods.

BROADEN ECONOMY

Even more important, the mine symbolizes the Irish Republic's efforts to broaden the base of a predominantly agricultural economy.

Main feature of the mine is the highway. A huge tunnel carved into the side of a hill first worked for copper in 1790. About 100 yards from the entrance are the remains of the old workings that shut down in 1848.

The tunnel descends a gentle slope to a depth of 400 feet. Eventually the lowest mine level will be 1,100 feet below the surface and some 900 feet below sea level. The tunnel is big enough to take the powerful rubber-tired dump trucks that will pull ore to the surface in 35-ton loads.

H. D. Forman of Hardisty, Alta., and Vancouver, managing director of the company, says the mine is the first to use the highway technique "in the vertical plane." Some of the new uranium mines in Canada use the same system on the horizontal plane.

REDUCES COSTS

Forman, a graduate of the University of Alberta, commutes he-bia, where he is in charge of two other Mogul mining developments.

Day-to-day work at the mine is supervised by Victor B. Bjorkman, native of Viking, Alta., and a graduate of the University of British Columbia. Superintendent of the mill, now under construction on a man-made flat below the mine entrance, is Roy Corey, formerly of Trail, B.C.

Forman says the mine should go into production early in 1958.

OTHER ORES

The mill, one of the most modern in the world, will handle 4,000 tons of ore a day and the mine has proved ore reserves to ensure 20 years' operation.

Alongside the mill is a modern wash house and a hostel for single miners with, unusual in Europe, separate rooms for each man. To date miners are staying away from the wash house. "They seem to prefer to go home dirty," says Bjorkman.

One of Bjorkman's main tasks has been running a school for Irish miners to teach them Canadian mining techniques. "It took them a while to get used to the pace we consider normal in Canadian mines, but they are good workers and are coming along fine."

Kiwanis Talk

Atomic Harvest Ready to Reap

Some of the promises of peaceful atomic energy made to "a shocked world" more than a decade ago are beginning to materialize, D. R. F. Brower, regional information officer of the United Kingdom Information Office, told the Kiwanis Club yesterday.

"A peaceful and bountiful harvest is being reaped from the dragons' teeth sown over Japan. Atomic energy is about to take its place in industry and to make its positive and quite remarkable contribution to human well-being."

Mr. Brower said Britain was now entering the first of three stages in development of commercial nuclear power. This stage, he said, would provide over the next 10 years atomic power stations of comparatively low thermal efficiency, but in view of present costs of mined coal, the stations would still be able to sell electricity at a price comparable with the price of power from most coal-fired stations in Europe.

SECOND STAGE

Recent research, he said had brought the second stage much closer — a stage that promised much more efficient atomic stations producing electricity at a much more competitive cost. The third stage would be the building of fast "breeder-reactors."

"At the end of any given period," he explained, "there is more fuel in the breeder-reactor than when the operation started, although replacement of the material in the surrounding blanket will be needed — a strange scientific example of being able to eat one's cake and have it."

Present civilization, Mr. Brower said, was based on power; "improved living standards both in advanced industrial countries and in the vast underdeveloped countries can only come about through the increased use of power. For Britain, and for the rest of the world, the coming of nuclear power marks the beginning of a new era."

Mothers Say . . .?

Crow, Cat, Finch, Chipmunk, Rabbit...

KIRKLAND LAKE, Ont. (CP)—Every child should have at least one pet, wise mothers say. But Thomas Haley, 15, who lives in nearby Gold Centre, didn't stop at one.

He started bringing home strays and injured birds and animals four years ago. A recent count showed he had a crow, a cat, a budgie, a dog, a woodchuck, a finch, a rabbit, a chipmunk and nine canaries.

Young Thomas had a snake and an owl, too, until the snake died recently and the owl was donated to the Ontario lands and forests department for an exhibition.

Most of the pets are in cages, so wrangles are few.

UN Force

Desert Clean-Up Canadians' Task

EL BALLAH, Egypt (CP)—A trio of Canadian sappers paused in their dangerous living in the desert to pass their mine-detecting skills along to some needed helpers —a pioneer section of a Brazilian battalion just arrived to join the United Nations Emergency Force.

Sgt. George McCracken of Vedder Crossing, B.C., and Sprs. Edward Leathwood of White Rock, B.C., and William Lake of Chilliwack, B.C., took time out from the work of detecting, marking and lifting mines to instruct men who will help them make the desert safe.

The Canadian instructors, working through an interpreter, gave the Brazilians a course in methods of detection, minefield-breaching drills and practical handling, disarming and neutralizing.

NOW VETERANS

The Canadians are old hands at desert mine warfare, having been the first sapper unit of UNEF in the field and their experience in the distinctive conditions and in disposing of eight different kinds of mine, sown by combatants in last fall's hostilities, is being passed on.

After the course, the Canadians took their students into areas where mines were suspected.

Wild Bedouin tribesmen have proved surprising allies in hunting minefields. At first these desert nomads walked off with marking steel stakes and fences and thus gave the sappers extra work.

But there is evidence that the Bedouins have suffered many casualties trying to retrieve so-called wooden "shoe-boxes" housing personnel mines. They have had arms and legs blown off.

STAND BACK

Lately, they tell the Canadians where they find mines—and then stay at a safe distance while the removal job is done.

Meanwhile other isolated Canadian sapper groups are searching out and purifying water supplies in areas where withdrawing Israelis have left wells damaged or polluted.

St. Luke's

Canon Pike To Retire In July

Rector of St. Luke's Anglican Church here since 1939, Canon Frederic Pike has announced he will retire in July.

A graduate of St. John's College, Winnipeg, and St. Chad's College, Regina, Canon Pike has been a priest in the Anglican Church for 43 years.

For 25 years he worked in the diocese of Qu'Appelle, Sask., including 10 years as rector of St. Barnabas' Church, Moose Jaw.

Canon Pike was appointed rural dean of Victoria in 1945 for a four-year term, and was reappointed in 1949.

In 1950 Archbishop H. E. Sexton made him a canon. The archbishop will name a successor at a later date.

Wenner-Gren Money Pumped Into Science

Money pumped into scientific research by Swedish industrialist Dr. Axel Wenner-Gren has resulted in "many great discoveries," he said here Monday.

One of the most famous discoveries was that of Carbon 14 — an isotope of carbon which can be used to tell the age of organic matter.

Dr. Wenner-Gren said he had found he could derive great happiness by promoting scientific research.

Money from his developments had been responsible in finding the bodies of human beings who died 20,000 years ago and 8,000 years ago, he said.

"My foundations work together with many hundreds of universities and thousands of scientists," he explained. "I've had success in my life . . ."

Unexploded

Warning Chalked On Safe

SYDNEY (CP) — Some months after he escaped from an Australian jail, William Nolan set out to rob a safe in Casino, Northern New South Wales.

He drilled out the two keyholes of the safe and put a charge of gelignite in each. Then he set fuses. One charge exploded; the other did not.

Nolan left in a hurry but his conscience troubled him. Suppose somebody did not realize what had happened and tried to force a key into the unexploded charge?

So the safebreaker went back and wrote across the safe in red chalk: "Danger. Unexploded charge in bottom keyhole."

The police told the story in his favor when he was brought to trial in Sydney.

Saanich Council Against Cemetery

Saanich council will register a separate appeal through its solicitor against establishment of a private enterprise cemetery in the Goldstream district.

Saanich will be the fourth party to make an appeal against the granting of a certificate of public convenience and necessity to Memorial Gardens Association (Canada) Ltd. Others are Goldstream residents, Colwood cemetery company and the board of cemetery trustees of Royal Oak.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery

Finds Healing Substance That Does Both— Relieves Pain—Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain. Thousands have been relieved—without resort to surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne*)—the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H®. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

CCF Panel Ponders Curbs for Inflation

Steps used by governments to curb inflation were outlined by economics professor Reid Elliott during a panel discussion on "Inflation, Causes and Cures," held by the Saanich CCF Association, in the Douglas CCF Hall Monday night.

He said inflation could be curbed by reducing the ability of the public to spend by high income taxes and restricted bank credit, by sale of government bonds, reducing willingness of the public to spend by putting on high excise taxes or by reducing defence spending and capital expenditure.

Victor Williams, CCF candidate for the Victoria riding in the coming federal election, said inflation could only be cured by eliminating war, greed and by cutting down on profit.

William Caird, who represented labor on the panel, said there could be no solution until a planned economy was put into operation to replace private enterprise.

Don Anderson of the Chamber of Commerce said he knew of "no sure-fire cure" for inflation. He said military costs and high labor wages contributed to inflation and should be cut down.

Prof. Elliott said inflation would be eliminated when people started trying to find out "how much they could produce for how little instead of how little for how much."

Power Body To Borrow $40,000,000

Legislation will be introduced this session to enable the B.C. Power Commission to borrow an additional $40,000,000 for further expansion, Premier Bennett said Monday.

He answered opposition charges that the commission was losing its fight with the B.C. Electric for new projects by saying the borrowing power of the public-owned utility had been increased from $80,000,000 to $210,000,000 since Social Credit has been in office.

Commission Not 'Broke'

SIDNEY—The Sidney village commission has $4,000 general revenue to work with, left by the previous commission, Joseph Bilgeri, a member of the present body, said yesterday.

Members of the commission elected this January complained recently that they had no money to work with. They said the previous commission "left the cupboard bare."

Mr. Bilgeri, also a member of previous commission, said that after December bills of $893 were paid, $4,000 was left in the general revenue account and about $700 in the sewer maintenance fund.

THE ENDLESS EASE
he likes hard work . . . as long as he doesn't have to do any!
The ENDLESS EASE is an advertising man who likes an ad program that "runs itself" — no matter what direction it runs in.
He'll never climb a sales peak . . . he'd rather flow quietly down hill.
He'll never make a quick move . . . he'd rather take a slow loss.
Fortunately he's a rare creature — almost extinct in today's tough market.
Most ad men today are probing deep, carefully weighing each market — for product sales possibilities, for competitive opportunities. And they're finding sales plums they never knew existed.
And they're concentrating their advertising locally in the markets that show the most promise.
They're turning to newspapers to cover those markets fully. Because just about all the people in each market read the newspaper every day.
Retailers know this, too. That's why they feature so strongly the products of manufacturers who advertise importantly in the local newspaper.
It's a partnership that moves more merchandise . . . faster. That's why national advertisers upped their investment in newspapers 14.3% last year!
All business is local... and so are all newspapers!

Northspan Highlights Uraniums

TORONTO (CP) — A declining stock market was somewhat [illegible] in the closing minutes Tuesday but prices couldn't overcome their losses and the market closed easier.

Goodyear Tire recorded the best gain on the board, up five points to 165, in light trading. Losses were generally fractional.

Northspan recorded a 20-cent gain at $8.10 among uraniums. Other issues were lower but they closed above their lows.

International Nickel had a 1¼ point loss at 97 among senior base metals. The majority of other seniors were fractionally lower.

Western oils were lower, mainly because of minor losses among index stocks. Triad lost 15 cents at $7.40. Security was off 15 cents to $3.85 and Central Explorers 20 cents to $4.20. Dome Exploration (Western) advanced ⅞ to 11⅞.

New York Rallies

NEW YORK (UP) — Stocks edged higher after an early sell-off.

The early decline and the subsequent recovery from the lows were accompanied by light volume.

Freeport Sulphur soared 6 points late in the day on news the government will buy large amounts of nickel from the company for stockpiling.

Industrials rose on average thanks to strength in American Telephone and Chrysler, a firmer tone in steels, a better market position for some chemicals, and a rise in some of the miscellaneous issues.

Missouri Pacific ran up more than 2 points in rails. New York Central rose nearly a point.

American Motors featured again in volume.

Steel Shares Slip

MONTREAL (CP) — The Montreal and Canadian stock exchanges Tuesday closed irregularly lower.

Among steels, Algoma slipped 1½ to 114 while Atlas at 27¼ was down a point. In the base metals Canada Bronze at 27 and Asbestos at 30½ each dropped ½ while Aluminum at 116¼ eased ¼. Inter-Provincial Pipe Lines dipped a point at 50 and in the refining oils Imperial lost one at 51 while McColl and B-A each moved down ¼.

Papers were mixed. In utilities Brazil at 9½ firmed ¼. Banks were generally down in fractions while in carriers CPR moved up ¼ to 36¼.

Pac-Nickel Soars

VANCOUVER—The mines average was taken ahead against the general trend because of an advance of 25 cents in Pacific Nickel, which closed at 80 cents. Spud Valley was also strong at 14 cents, but other mines dropped.

Oils also inclined easier, although United stood firm at 2.70.

Western Plywood at $18¼ and Midwest Gas at 7.30 were strong spots among industrials. MacMillan slipped to $29.

Undertone Firm

LONDON (Reuters) — The London Stock Exchange maintained a satisfactory undertone although business was restricted by the international situation and domestic labor problems.
